MINERS INCLINED TO REMAIN IDLE

Berlin Tension Eases As U. S. And Russian Officials Agree To Talk Over Soviet Blockade

American Air Freight Shuttle Is Called Off

BERLIN, April 4 (AP)—High level American and Soviet representatives will meet soon to try to clarify the ground communications blockade of Berlin imposed by Russia against the Western Powers.

This was disclosed today in an exchange of notes as the United States Army called off its air freight shuttle to Berlin and withdrew its military police from Soviet railroad headquarters in the American sector of Berlin.

These developments eased somewhat the East-West tension that has prevailed in the German capital for more than two weeks.

Notes were exchanged between Brig. Gen. C. K. Gailey, United States chief of staff, and Lt. Gen. M. I. Dratvin, Soviet deputy commander in Germany.

Russian notes were delivered also to the British and presumably the French. The British-French reaction was not known.

The Russians offered to try to remove some of the difficulties in moving military freight and passengers, but insisted there was little possibility of changing existing regulations.

U. S. Won't Change Position

Gen. Gailey answered he would be glad to meet with Gen. Dratvin, but made clear the United States would not accept the boarding of American trains by Russians in the Soviet zone.

The cancellation of the "milk run" between Frankfurt and Berlin, over which tons of food have flown the past three days for the 10,000 Americans in the city, reflected American confidence in resisting Soviet attempts to squeeze the Western Powers out of Berlin.

A United States military freight train passed through the Soviet zone yesterday with a large cargo of food supplies. It did not meet any difficulty from the Russians.

Meanwhile, it was learned that Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, chief of the British Imperial General Staff, will dine here Tuesday with Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, Soviet commander in Germany, and Dratvin. Montgomery now is visiting in the British zone with Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, British military governor.

The Soviet note said the Russians deny any agreement exists for free and unrestricted use by the Western Allies of established corridors connecting Berlin with the western zones. The Western Powers claim these agreements were made at meetings of the four-power authorities in Berlin, and offer signed minutes of the meetings as proof.

Russia Denies Any Agreement

Gen. M. I. Dratvin, Soviet deputy commander, disclosed the Russian offer in reply to an American note of March 31 rejecting the Soviet-imposed restrictions.

"I cannot help considering as a misunderstanding and error the statement set forth in your letter as though there were some sort of an agreement concerning the 'free and unrestricted use of the established corridors' connecting Berlin with the western zones of occupation," Gen Dratvin said.

"There was not and there cannot be any agreement concerning the orderless and uncontrolled traffic of freight and personnel through the territory of the Soviet zone of occupation in Germany, for it is obvious that such orderless and uncontrolled traffic could only lead to confusion and would contribute to provoke unrest x x x "

Plane Carrying Marshall Blows Tire In Landing

BOGOTA, April 4. (INS) — Secretary of State Marshall and several high-ranking American diplomats escaped possible injury today when their plane blew a tire as it came in for a landing at nearby Medellin.

The group left Bogota this morning for a holiday flight which was arranged by William D. Pawley, former ambassador to Brazil.

Others in the party aboard Pawley's elaborately-fitted DC-3 included Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman, Walter J. Donnelly, a member of the United States delegation to the current Pan-American Conference in Bogota, and Mrs. Donnelly.

The plane left Bogota's Techo airport and completed the air flight without incident but blew the tire as it taxied into Medellin's airport.

Senator Reports Committee Will Favor Draft, UMT

Historians Oppose Universal Training

WASHINGTON, April 4—(AP)—A member of the Senate Armed Forces Committee predicted today that it will ask approval of both the peacetime draft and universal military training.

Meanwhile, Historian Harry Elmer Barnes and 25 college professors attacked UMT with the argument that history shows "compulsory training has not prevented war."

The senator, who asked not to be quoted by name, is a backer of both controversial measures. He said he is sure that a majority of the 13-member committee shares his views.

But he acknowledged he is not so sure that Congress will approve both the draft and UMT at this time. Of the two, the draft is regarded as having the better chance for passage.

The committee, which ended its public hearings Saturday, will start drafting the legislation in executive session Tuesday. Chairman Gurney (R-SD), forecast that it would have a bill ready for the Senate by Friday, but declined to guess exactly what it may contain.

Gurney in the past has said that he favors both a limited draft and UMT.

The other senator said that he felt strongly that both the draft—to take care of the military's short range requirements—and UMT to meet long range needs—should be speedily approved.

Greek Army Crushes Force Of 800 Guerrillas

SALONIKA, Greece, April 4 (AP)—The Greek army has crushed completely an 800-man guerrilla force in the Russia mountain area, United States military informants said today.

In five days of fighting the Communist-led rebels are believed to have lost more than 500 men and had their hideouts overrun. The Greek army's victory ended a rebel threat to Salonika.

For the first time Greek troops fought according to a plan drafted by a joint American-Greek military advisory group.

Wallace Assails "Fear" Campaign

BOSTON, Mass., April 4 (AP) — Henry A. Wallace said today that President Truman, Defense Secretary Forrestal and Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich) are "the greatest salesmen Communism ever had."

"They are driving people to accept the radical programs of the Communists in the hope of solving their problems," Wallace said in a speech at the founding convention of the Progressive Party of Massachusetts.

"Heavy arms, the draft, compulsory military training and battleships cruising the world," he said, "won't succeed in stopping hungry and desperate peoples from demanding and getting justice and a new chance to build and prosper.

"The present administration and its bi-partisan supporters are defaulting the leadership of these people to the Communists."

The third party presidential candidate said the United States is a "nation shaking with fear" because of what he said was an "outrageous campaign to create fear" by "military men and big business men."

Union Will Hand Steel Industry Its Pay Demand

PITTSBURGH, April 4 (AP)—The steel industry tomorrow will be handed the CIO-United Steel Workers' 1948 pay increase demands.

Philip Murray, president of both the CIO and the steel workers, will open negotiations here with the big United States Steel Corporation. Other sessions will be held elsewhere with other companies.

Wisconsin Primary Slated To Hurt Some GOP Hopeful

MacArthur Probably Has Most At Stake

MILWAUKEE, April 4 (AP)—Politicians agreed today that some GOP presidential hopeful is going to get hurt—and probably badly—in Wisconsin's vote Tuesday on 27 Republican convention delegates.

But 36 hours before the polls open they couldn't put their fingers with certainty on any one of the three candidates — Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota.

They could agree generally on three points:

1. It's probably now or never for MacArthur.

2. It may be boom or near-bust for Dewey and Stassen.

3. A three-way tie would keep everybody in the race, hurt MacArthur most and satisfy nobody.

MacArthur Has Most At Stake

MacArthur, who hasn't been here to campaign, probably has the most at stake.

If he can't win a majority of the 27 delegates in a state where he keeps legal residence, the politicians think, the General isn't going any place in the Republican race.

A sweep of all of the 27, of course, would give the MacArthur boom the kind of solid appearance that would spread it elsewhere. The General's backers have their eyes chiefly on Illinois and Pennsylvania, in this connection.

If he shares only in a three-way even split, MacArthur's men probably will have to pull a coup somewhere else to make him a sizable factor in the June Philadelphia nominating convention.

If Dewey should be crowded out of the delegate listing in Wisconsin, the effect would be somewhat similar to the crushing defeat the late Wendell L. Willkie collected here in 1944.

Dewey Battles Taft In Nebraska

That defeat bounced Willkie out of the race. But Dewey has made it plain he will fight out the April 13 Nebraska and May 21 Oregon primaries no matter what happens here.

He battles with Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, for the first time in Nebraska. Stassen and MacArthur also are in that presidential popularity contest.

Gregory Peck Falls Off Horse, Fractures Ankle

HOLLYWOOD, April 4 (AP)—Actor Gregory Peck was nursing a broken ankle today, the result of a fall while horseback riding Saturday evening.

Dr. Lee Siegel said Peck broke both bones of his left ankle in three places and will be on crutches for about a month.

Ralph McCutcheon, owner of the stables where Peck was riding, reported the actor was taking a turn at a fast clip when his horse slipped and fell.

Sen. Lodge Urges Military Aid For Western Europe

WASHINGTON, April 4 (INS)—Sen. Lodge (R) Mass., urged today that the 6.1 billion dollar world recovery program be broadened to include military aid for Western Europe if the democracies coordinate their defenses against Russian aggression.

Chairman Bridges, of the Senate Appropriations Committee, announced, meanwhile, that hearings will begin about April 22 on funds to carry out the vast foreign assistance act which President Truman signed Saturday.

The New Hampshire Republican said that the committee will summon home from Europe to testify the chief American economic advisers in most of the 16 European nations covered by the program.

Lodge, a key member of the Senate Relations Committee and an officer combat veteran of World War II, foresaw "an early possibility that military aid may be furnished Western Europe." The Senator asserted:

"The Western European nations first must show that they have set up a co-ordinated military defense plan, agreed to a single commander and assigned their missions and the zones for which each is responsible before we send them military aid."

France, Britain, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg already have entered into a military and economic alliance. American adherence to this entente has been favored by the administration.

Bridges predicted that hearings will last around two weeks and that the money bill to finance ERP and China aid will be ready for the Senate floor by mid-May.

A similar schedule is expected to be followed by the House Appropriations Committee under chairman Taber (R) N.Y.

Sergeant Is Arrested After Stealing B-25 Plane

DAYTON, O., April 4 (AP) — A sergeant who lacked Army flight instruction stole a B-25 plane and flew it solo from Wright Field to Minneapolis late today, the Army Air Base near here reported.

Capt. J. W. Alworth, Wright Field public relations officer, said the sergeant landed the ship without damage and was taken into custody by military police.

Alworth said the sergeant, identified only as McCrady, ignored a red light ordering him to return to the field after his takeoff and also failed to answer radio messages to him from the tower.

4,000 Shouting Italians Break Up Communist Rally

Troops Keep Crowd From Yugo Frontier

GORIZIA, Italy, April 4 (AP)—More than 4,000 shouting Italians broke up a scheduled Communist political rally in San Antonio Square here today. The anti-Communist crowd then staged a demonstration of its own, singing Italian national songs and shouting "Long live America" and "Death to Tito."

The jubilant crowd marched from the square towards the nearby Yugoslav border, but Italian soldiers prevented them from reaching the frontier. Five hundred carabinieri, backed up by two infantry companies from the crack Italian Manitoba Division, dispersed the crowd. There was no fighting and nobody was injured, although police in a few instances brandished clubs.

The crowd gathered at the square as the Communist rally was scheduled to begin.

Fifty Communists showed up on bicycles and were tossed out of the square, one by one. Police then escorted them away from the crowd. A woman Communist leader, Joyce Lussu, who was to have addressed the rally, did not appear. Guido Bergamo, another speaker of the day, was hustled away by the crowd before he could reach the speakers stand.

Gorizia, a city of 50,000, is 34 miles north of Trieste, now occupied by British and American troops. To the south and east 5,000 Yugoslav troops occupy other regions of the Trieste free territory.

Marshall Tito offered to trade Trieste for Gorizia two years ago, but the Italians turned down that proposal. A similar Yugoslav feeler, made after the Western Powers proposed return of Trieste to Italy, was also rejected.

Body Of Missing Child Bride Found In River

GREENVILLE, Ky., April 4. (AP)—The body of Mrs. Imogene Ellison, missing child bride, was found in the Mud River 16 miles from here today with a white rag tied tightly about the neck, Muhlenberg County Sheriff Otis Robinson reported.

The sheriff said it appeared the girl either had been drowned or choked to death. The body was found by Everett Jenkins, Rochester, and two other men who were motor-boating.

Meanwhile, the girl's 37-year-old husband, Raymond Ellison, remained in jail here, unaware of the finding of the body, the sheriff said. Ellison was placed in jail last Thursday at his own request, stating he would "feel safer" there, Robinson said.

Wreckage Of Missing Air Force Plane Found

SEATTLE, April 4 (AP)—Wreckage of a missing Air Force reserve plane with three men aboard was sighted today near the top of a 5,000-foot peak near Everett, Wash.

Col. John B. Randolph, air reserve commander at McChord Field, reported from a search plane circling the site that the wreckage had been identified from numbers of a tail section as the lost-twin-engined AT-11. The peak is approximately 18 miles northeast of Everett.

He said there was no sign of life.

The crashed ship vanished Friday on a 35-mile flight from McChord to the Sand Point Naval Air Station here.

Chiang To Give Up Presidency, Aide Discloses

Likely To Resume China Premiership

NANKING, April 4 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek has decided to quit the presidency of China, a spokesman said tonight, but there were indications he would remain the nationalist strong man by becoming premier.

Under one title or another, Chiang has been the top figure since establishment of the republic in 1927.

A spokesman for the Kuomintang, China's governing party, said the Generalissimo was determined to free himself from the presidency in order to lead a "holy war" against the increasingly powerful Chinese Communists.

There was even an intimation that he might take the field in person.

Chiang told the Kuomintang Central Committee that the civil war was China's most critical problem and "the Communists must be beaten if China is to live."

The spokesman said committeemen argued with Chiang for three hours, but he only reiterated his determination in stronger language.

Committee Members Moan

The committee scheduled another session for Tuesday to decide what to do next. Members literally moaned because of their chief's political thunderbolt.

The new National Assembly, now in weekend recess, is to elect China's first constitutional president and vice president. Chiang has been regarded as a virtually unanimous choice for the presidency, which he has held by Kuomintang election since 1943.

He has been premier before, but gave up the job in 1945. Since then the premiership has been a sort of front-office administrative position. It now is held by Gen. Chang Chun, who has been reported desiring to resign.

Chaing "Anxious To Serve"

Informants said Chiang told his party he was "anxious to serve the country and the people and will take any official position within the government," except the presidency or vice presidency.

This was generally interpreted as meaning he was willing to resume the premiership and convert it into the position of real power.

The presidency, under this interpretation, would become a sort of figurehead job such as it is in France.

Informants said Chiang was urging that Dr. Hu Shih be elected president.

Dr. Hu, former ambassador to Washington, is president of Peking

Russia Rejects Chinese Protests

LONDON, Monday, April 5—(AP)—The Moscow radio said today Russia again has rejected Chinese protests that Soviet patrol planes fired on a Chinese airliner.

The incident occurred March 8 near the Port Arthur naval base.

The broadcaster said a Russian note dated April 3 rejected a Chinese claim that the Chinese plane had not crossed the borders of the Port Arthur military area.

The radio said the Soviet government also rejected a Chinese contention that China enjoys full sovereign rights in any part of Manchuria.

The note said the Chinese plane was within Russia's military area. It said Soviet rights over the port area were established in a Russian-Chinese agreement of 1945.

"In order to avoid a repetition of similar undesirable incidents," the broadcaster quoted the note, Chinese authorities should "inform the Soviet command in Port Arthur in advance, about expected flights of Chinese planes" over the region.

China issued its first protest March 10. Russia rejected that note three days later.

ORDERS MINERS BACK — Federal Judge Matthew F. McGuire (above) signed the temporary restraining order directing John L. Lewis to end the strike of his United Mine Workers. Judge McGuire signed the order Saturday night in his Washington apartment.

Legal Pressure Put On 400,000 Striking Miners

Lewis Gives No Open Back-To-Work Signal

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP) — Nearly 400,000 striking coal miners were caught in a legal squeeze today as a federal judge ordered an end to their three-week walkout but John L. Lewis gave no open signal to go back to work.

There were rumblings from the bituminous coal fields that unless Lewis nodded for compliance the miners would defy the temporary restraining order which Attorney General Tom Clark obtained in a surprisingly quick move Saturday night.

No such word today was expected by United Mine Workers' officials here. By the end of the week, however, President Truman's advisers were confident that one of these two things would happen:

Judge Goldsborough To Preside

1. Either Lewis, as president of the United Mine Workers, would have restored work in the pits or taken steps to end the strike, possibly by April 12, or

2. The court would impose a whopping big fine on the union and Lewis for contempt.

Justice T. Alan Goldsborough is scheduled to preside in Motions Court next week. He is the judge who slapped a fine of $3,500,000 on the United Mine Workers and $10,000 on Lewis personally for contempt of court in the battle arising from the November-December strike in 1946.

Judge Goldsborough figured the fine at $1 per day per miner and estimated the number of coal diggers actually on the job daily as 350,000. Some contracts in the past had levied a $1 per day fine for wildcat strikes.

Strike Enters Crucial Week

Lewis' attorneys may act swiftly, however, to request that the temporary restraining order granted Saturday night by Justice Matthew F. McGuire be dissolved. That would have the effect of staying any penalty for several days.

The strike, if continued, goes into its crucial week tomorrow. Steel mills are fast using up precious stockpiles of coal.

Railroads, which already have been forced to curtail passenger and freight business on coal-hauling lines, have been laying off men. Thousands more will be thrown idle this week, government experts say.

Lewis, in a letter to his members Saturday morning, disclaimed any responsibility for the shutdown, which started March 15. He said it was entirely up to the individual soft coal miner whether he continued to remain idle.

Finns Return To Moscow

MOSCOW, April 4 (AP)—Two Finnish members of a delegation which is negotiating a treaty with Russia arrived in Moscow tonight after a trip home for consultation.

Indicate UMW Chieftain Must Order Return

Diggers Expected To Defy Injunction

PITTSBURGH, April 5 (AP) — (Monday)—The nation's soft coal miners seemed inclined to continue their 22-day-old strike today despite a government injunction aimed at ending the stoppage.

The miners walked out March 15 following a letter from John L. Lewis telling them the operators had "dishonored" the current contract by refusing to provide $100 monthly pensions.

Late Saturday, Federal Judge Matthew F. McGuire issued a temporary injunction ordering the miners to return to the pits immediately. The injunction also ordered the operators to try and resolve their differences with Lewis in the pension dispute.

The first work day following the government order to resume digging found the mines ready for operation. But there appeared to be few, if any, miners "willing" to man them.

Near Homer City, Pa., the Waterman mine of Rochester and Pittsburgh Coal Company opened for its regular late Sunday shift. None of the 325 miners showed up.

Await Orders From Lewis

All was quiet in the rich Fayette County, Pa., coal fields yesterday. There were no union local meetings and none were scheduled for today. Rarely do the miners act without such meetings.

A UMW official in Central Pennsylvania said flatly:

"The work stoppage will continue until some definite settlement is made on the pension issue." He asked that his name not be used.

The miners also paid scant attention to Lewis' message that they could work if it suits them.

They generally indicated they would await a specific return to work order from the United Mine Worker chief.

Utah's miners scheduled a meeting for this afternoon. Also meeting late today was the 700-man Mountour No. 1 local whose members are employed at a Pittsburgh Consolidation pit at Library, Pa., near Pittsburgh.

No Pension, No Work

Montour Member Frank Harper said:

"There won't be any work Monday and I doubt if there will be any Tuesday. Injunction or no injunction, the men want a pension—or no work."

This seemed to echo rank-and-file sentiment in this pivotal area. The same opinion held among

Six Persons Die In Plane Mishaps

CIRCLEVILLE, O., April 4 (AP) — Two light airplanes collided above downtown Circleville early tonight, killing three persons.

One plane crashed in flames on railroad tracks at the south edge of town. The other—which did not catch fire—came down in the backyard of the Harry Grant home.

Mrs. Ruth Swift, 30, pilot of one plane; Virgil Newman, 40, pilot of the other, and Jack Moats, 21, passenger in the Newman ship, were killed. All three were veteran fliers.

CONNEAUTVILLE, Pa., April 4 (AP)—Two small training planes collided in flight today, killing an air instructor and a student pilot in one which plunged to the ground.

The second plane, piloted by Fred C. Byham, its propeller sheared off in the collision, landed safely in an open field a mile from where the other ship crashed into a tree.

Dr. U. S. Wharton, deputy Crawford County coroner, identified the victims as Arden E. Meredith, 26, Meadville, Pa., former army pilot and an air instructor; and Francis T. Myers, 20, Cambridge Springs, Pa., a student flier.

CHURCHVILLE, Md., April 4 (AP) —A former Army pilot from Baltimore was killed today and his four-year-old son critically injured today in the crash of their two-seat plane.

State police identified the dead man as James Winfred Bull, 40, who served as a glider pilot in Holland and at the Battle of the Bulge.

His son, Cris, was admitted to Harford Memorial Hospital at Havre De Grace. Attendants there reported he had suffered fractures of both arms, possible internal injuries and skull fracture, and multiple body burns from gasoline fumes.

Trial Of 22 Former Nazis Ends This Week

NUERNBERG, Germany, April 14 (AP)—The trial of 22 men charged with 1,000,000 murders ends here this week.

Presiding Judge Michael A. Musmanno said today the three-man American court will hand down its judgement Thursday. Sentences will be imposed Saturday.

The 22 men commanded 500 picked plug-uglies from the SS (Nazi Elite Guard) who carried out the instructions of Adolf Hitler and Heinrich Himmler to kill every Jew, every gypsy, every "racial undesirable" in the German army's wake.

Vessels Capsize

7 Drowned And 4 Missing In Three Boat Accidents

MT. VERNON, Ind., April 4 (AP)—Three young men and a nine-year-old boy were drowned today when an overloaded homemade boat capsized in backwaters of the flooded Wabash River 10 miles southwest of here.

Sgt. Kermit Seifert, of Mt. Vernon police, said there were nine in the boat. He said three boys and two girls were rescued.

The dead, all of whom lived in Posey County near the scene, were:

Raymond Goldman, 20; Robert Uhde, 21; Paul Denning, 20, and Ed Weatherford, 9.

First reports of the accident to state police said all nine occupants of the boat were drowned. Rescue equipment was dispatched from Evansville, 22 miles east of here, and from Princeton, Oakland City, Boonville, and Vincennes, all of Indiana.

BLAIRSVILLE, Pa., April 4 (AP)—Three youths drowned and a fourth swam to safety today as their flat-bottomed boat overturned in the Conemaugh River near here.

The lone survivor was George Grdgon, 12, Blairsville.

Coroner E. L. Fleming identified the victims as Melvin Kelly, 19; Charles Clark, 21, and Ronnie Squibbs, 9, all of Blairsville.

NEW CASTLE, Del., April 4 (AP)—Four teen-age boys were missing today after their capsized rowboat was found on the bank of the Delaware River.

The overturned boat was found by one of the nine airplanes and three Coast Guard cutters that searched the river for 60 miles. It was identified by firemen from the Holloway (Del) Terrace Company as the craft the boys took out on the choppy river yesterday.

Police identified the youths as Richard Cathell, 14; Joseph Schroeder, 13; and the Layton brothers, Horace, 11 and Hiram, 14.

Ball Pens Help

Reynolds Eludes Chinese Guards And Flies To Tokyo

TOKYO, Monday, April 5 (AP) — Milton Reynolds arrived here late last night on an unauthorized flight from Shanghai, saying he made a melodramatic getaway by flinging ball-point pens at gun-brandishing Chinese guards.

The Chicago millionaire declared he fled to escape a financial shakedown and that his ill-fated quest for the world's highest mountain already had cost him $250,000.

Reynolds reported he got into his impounded exploration plane with his crew of three by promising the Chinese some of the pens which made him a fortune.

"They eagerly followed me; I got in and threw out the pens—50 of them—and slammed the door," he related.

Then Pilot Bill Odom gunned the engines. As tommy-gun-toting guards came running, he turned on one wheel and roared off the runway, downwind. Guards scattered like frightened chickens.

"I saw one guard with a tommy gun who was so surprised his jaw was falling off," remarked Odom. "I guess he forgot to shoot."

"I lay on the floor, holding the door shut, while Odom got us into the air," said the pen-maker.

Reynolds said they faked a course for Okinawa, then headed for Tokyo.

"We heard the Shanghai airport alerting a fighter squadron," he declared, "so for the first 350 miles we stayed about 20 feet above the ground and water."

Thus ended the acrimony-laden and fruitless hunt for a mountain in Western China suspected of being higher than Everest.

Reynolds provided the four-engined C-87 plane, "Explorer," and the crew for the expedition to the Amne Machin range in China's wild west. The Boston Museum of Science was co-sponsor.

Berlin Tension Eases As U. S. And Russian Officials Agree To Talk Over Soviet Blockade

American Air Freight Shuttle Is Called Off

BERLIN, April 4 (AP)—High level American and Soviet representatives will meet soon to try to clarify the ground communications blockade of Berlin imposed by Russia against the Western Powers.

This was disclosed today in an exchange of notes as the United States Army called off its air freight shuttle to Berlin and withdrew its military police from Soviet railroad headquarters in the American sector of Berlin.

These developments eased somewhat the East-West tension that has prevailed in the German capital for more than two weeks.

Informants said Chiang told his party he was "anxious to serve the country and the people and will take any official position within the government," except the presidency or vice presidency.

This was generally interpreted as meaning he was willing to resume the premiership and convert it into the position of real power.

The presidency, under this interpretation, would become a sort of figurehead job such as it is in France.

Informants said Chiang was urging that Dr. Hu Shih be elected president.

ORDERS MINERS BACK — Federal Judge Matthew F. McGuire (above) signed the temporary restraining order directing John L. Lewis to end the strike of his United Mine Workers. Judge McGuire signed the order Saturday night in his Washington apartment.

Indicate UMW Chieftain Must Order Return

Diggers Expected To Defy Injunction

PITTSBURGH, April 5 (AP) — (Monday)—The nation's soft coal miners seemed inclined to continue their 22-day-old strike today despite a government injunction aimed at ending the stoppage.

The miners walked out March 15 following a letter from John L. Lewis telling them the operators had "dishonored" the current contract by refusing to provide $100 monthly pensions.

Late Saturday, Federal Judge Matthew F. McGuire issued a temporary injunction ordering the miners to return to the pits immediately. The injunction also ordered the operators to try and resolve their differences with Lewis in the pension dispute.

The first work day following the government order to resume digging found the mines ready for operation. But there appeared to be few, if any, miners "willing" to man them.

Near Homer City, Pa., the Waterman mine of Rochester and Pittsburgh Coal Company opened for its regular late Sunday shift. None of the 325 miners showed up.

Await Orders From Lewis

All was quiet in the rich Fayette County, Pa., coal fields yesterday. There were no union local meetings and none were scheduled for today. Rarely do the miners act without such meetings.

A UMW official in Central Pennsylvania said flatly:

"The work stoppage will continue until some definite settlement is made on the pension issue." He asked that his name not be used.

The miners also paid scant attention to Lewis' message that they could work if it suits them.

They generally indicated they would await a specific return to work order from the United Mine Worker chief.

Utah's miners scheduled a meeting for this afternoon. Also meeting late today was the 700-man Mountour No. 1 local whose members are employed at a Pittsburgh Consolidation pit at Library, Pa., near Pittsburgh.

No Pension, No Work

Montour Member Frank Harper said:

"There won't be any work Monday and I doubt if there will be any Tuesday. Injunction or no injunction, the men want a pension—or no work."

This seemed to echo rank-and-file sentiment in this pivotal area. The same opinion held among

Legal Pressure Put On 400,000 Striking Miners

Lewis Gives No Open Back-To-Work Signal

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP) — Nearly 400,000 striking coal miners were caught in a legal squeeze today as a federal judge ordered an end to their three-week walkout but John L. Lewis gave no open signal to go back to work.

There were rumblings from the bituminous coal fields that unless Lewis nodded for compliance the miners would defy the temporary restraining order which Attorney General Tom Clark obtained in a surprisingly quick move Saturday night.

No such word today was expected by United Mine Workers' officials here. By the end of the week, however, President Truman's advisers were confident that one of these two things would happen:

Judge Goldsborough To Preside

1. Either Lewis, as president of the United Mine Workers, would have restored work in the pits or taken steps to end the strike, possibly by April 12, or

2. The court would impose a whopping big fine on the union and Lewis for contempt.

Justice T. Alan Goldsborough is scheduled to preside in Motions Court next week. He is the judge who slapped a fine of $3,500,000 on the United Mine Workers and $10,000 on Lewis personally for contempt of court in the battle arising from the November-December strike in 1946.

Judge Goldsborough figured the fine at $1 per day per miner and estimated the number of coal diggers actually on the job daily as 350,000. Some contracts in the past had levied a $1 per day fine for wildcat strikes.

Strike Enters Crucial Week

Lewis' attorneys may act swiftly, however, to request that the temporary restraining order granted Saturday night by Justice Matthew F. McGuire be dissolved. That would have the effect of staying any penalty for several days.

The strike, if continued, goes into its crucial week tomorrow. Steel mills are fast using up precious stockpiles of coal.

Railroads, which already have been forced to curtail passenger and freight business on coal-hauling lines, have been laying off men. Thousands more will be thrown idle this week, government experts say.

Lewis, in a letter to his members Saturday morning, disclaimed any responsibility for the shutdown, which started March 15. He said it was entirely up to the individual soft coal miner whether he continued to remain idle.

Senator Reports Committee Will Favor Draft, UMT

Historians Oppose Universal Training

WASHINGTON, April 4—(AP)—A member of the Senate Armed Forces Committee predicted today that it will ask approval of both the peacetime draft and universal military training.

Meanwhile, Historian Harry Elmer Barnes and 25 college professors attacked UMT with the argument that history shows "compulsory training has not prevented war."

The senator, who asked not to be quoted by name, is a backer of both controversial measures. He said he is sure that a majority of the 13-member committee shares his views.

But he acknowledged he is not so sure that Congress will approve both the draft and UMT at this time. Of the two, the draft is regarded as having the better chance for passage.

The committee, which ended its public hearings Saturday, will start drafting the legislation in executive session Tuesday. Chairman Gurney (R-SD), forecast that it would have a bill ready for the Senate by Friday, but declined to guess exactly what it may contain.

Gurney in the past has said that he favors both a limited draft and UMT.

The other senator said that he felt strongly that both the draft—to take care of the military's short range requirements—and UMT to meet long range needs—should be speedily approved.

Greek Army Crushes Force Of 800 Guerrillas

SALONIKA, Greece, April 4 (AP)—The Greek army has crushed completely an 800-man guerrilla force in the Russia mountain area, United States military informants said today.

In five days of fighting the Communist-led rebels are believed to have lost more than 500 men and had their hideouts overrun. The Greek army's victory ended a rebel threat to Salonika.

For the first time Greek troops fought according to a plan drafted by a joint American-Greek military advisory group.

Wisconsin Primary Slated To Hurt Some GOP Hopeful

MacArthur Probably Has Most At Stake

MILWAUKEE, April 4 (AP)—Politicians agreed today that some GOP presidential hopeful is going to get hurt—and probably badly—in Wisconsin's vote Tuesday on 27 Republican convention delegates.

But 36 hours before the polls open they couldn't put their fingers with certainty on any one of the three candidates — Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota.

They could agree generally on three points:

1. It's probably now or never for MacArthur.

2. It may be boom or near-bust for Dewey and Stassen.

3. A three-way tie would keep everybody in the race, hurt MacArthur most and satisfy nobody.

MacArthur Has Most At Stake

MacArthur, who hasn't been here to campaign, probably has the most at stake.

If he can't win a majority of the 27 delegates in a state where he keeps legal residence, the politicians think, the General isn't going any place in the Republican race.

A sweep of all of the 27, of course, would give the MacArthur boom the kind of solid appearance that would spread it elsewhere. The General's backers have their eyes chiefly on Illinois and Pennsylvania, in this connection.

If he shares only in a three-way even split, MacArthur's men probably will have to pull a coup somewhere else to make him a sizable factor in the June Philadelphia nominating convention.

If Dewey should be crowded out of the delegate listing in Wisconsin, the effect would be somewhat similar to the crushing defeat the late Wendell L. Willkie collected here in 1944.

Dewey Battles Taft In Nebraska

That defeat bounced Willkie out of the race. But Dewey has made it plain he will fight out the April 13 Nebraska and May 21 Oregon primaries no matter what happens here.

He battles with Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, for the first time in Nebraska. Stassen and MacArthur also are in that presidential popularity contest.

Gregory Peck Falls Off Horse, Fractures Ankle

HOLLYWOOD, April 4 (AP)—Actor Gregory Peck was nursing a broken ankle today, the result of a fall while horseback riding Saturday evening.

Dr. Lee Siegel said Peck broke both bones of his left ankle in three places and will be on crutches for about a month.

Ralph McCutcheon, owner of the stables where Peck was riding, reported the actor was taking a turn at a fast clip when his horse slipped and fell.

Sen. Lodge Urges Military Aid For Western Europe

WASHINGTON, April 4 (INS)—Sen. Lodge (R) Mass., urged today that the 6.1 billion dollar world recovery program be broadened to include military aid for Western Europe if the democracies coordinate their defenses against Russian aggression.

Chairman Bridges, of the Senate Appropriations Committee, announced, meanwhile, that hearings will begin about April 22 on funds to carry out the vast foreign assistance act which President Truman signed Saturday.

The New Hampshire Republican said that the committee will summon home from Europe to testify the chief American economic advisers in most of the 16 European nations covered by the program.

Lodge, a key member of the Senate Relations Committee and an officer combat veteran of World War II, foresaw "an early possibility that military aid may be furnished Western Europe." The Senator asserted:

"The Western European nations first must show that they have set up a co-ordinated military defense plan, agreed to a single commander and assigned their missions and the zones for which each is responsible before we send them military aid."

France, Britain, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg already have entered into a military and economic alliance. American adherence to this entente has been favored by the administration.

Bridges predicted that hearings will last around two weeks and that the money bill to finance ERP and China aid will be ready for the Senate floor by mid-May.

A similar schedule is expected to be followed by the House Appropriations Committee under chairman Taber (R) N.Y.

4,000 Shouting Italians Break Up Communist Rally

Troops Keep Crowd From Yugo Frontier

GORIZIA, Italy, April 4 (AP)—More than 4,000 shouting Italians broke up a scheduled Communist political rally in San Antonio Square here today. The anti-Communist crowd then staged a demonstration of its own, singing Italian national songs and shouting "Long live America" and "Death to Tito."

The jubilant crowd marched from the square towards the nearby Yugoslav border, but Italian soldiers prevented them from reaching the frontier. Five hundred carabinieri, backed up by two infantry companies from the crack Italian Manitoba Division, dispersed the crowd. There was no fighting and nobody was injured, although police in a few instances brandished clubs.

The crowd gathered at the square as the Communist rally was scheduled to begin.

Fifty Communists showed up on bicycles and were tossed out of the square, one by one. Police then escorted them away from the crowd. A woman Communist leader, Joyce Lussu, who was to have addressed the rally, did not appear. Guido Bergamo, another speaker of the day, was hustled away by the crowd before he could reach the speakers stand.

Gorizia, a city of 50,000, is 34 miles north of Trieste, now occupied by British and American troops. To the south and east 5,000 Yugoslav troops occupy other regions of the Trieste free territory.

Marshall Tito offered to trade Trieste for Gorizia two years ago, but the Italians turned down that proposal. A similar Yugoslav feeler, made after the Western Powers proposed return of Trieste to Italy, was also rejected.

Russia Rejects Chinese Protests

LONDON, Monday, April 5—(AP)—The Moscow radio said today Russia again has rejected Chinese protests that Soviet patrol planes fired on a Chinese airliner.

The incident occurred March 8 near the Port Arthur naval base.

The broadcaster said a Russian note dated April 3 rejected a Chinese claim that the Chinese plane had not crossed the borders of the Port Arthur military area.

The radio said the Soviet government also rejected a Chinese contention that China enjoys full sovereign rights in any part of Manchuria.

The note said the Chinese plane was within Russia's military area. It said Soviet rights over the port area were established in a Russian-Chinese agreement of 1945.

"In order to avoid a repetition of similar undesirable incidents," the broadcaster quoted the note, Chinese authorities should "inform the Soviet command in Port Arthur in advance, about expected flights of Chinese planes" over the region.

China issued its first protest March 10. Russia rejected that note three days later.

Six Persons Die In Plane Mishaps

CIRCLEVILLE, O., April 4 (AP) — Two light airplanes collided above downtown Circleville early tonight, killing three persons.

One plane crashed in flames on railroad tracks at the south edge of town. The other—which did not catch fire—came down in the backyard of the Harry Grant home.

Mrs. Ruth Swift, 30, pilot of one plane; Virgil Newman, 40, pilot of the other, and Jack Moats, 21, passenger in the Newman ship, were killed. All three were veteran fliers.

CONNEAUTVILLE, Pa., April 4 (AP)—Two small training planes collided in flight today, killing an air instructor and a student pilot in one which plunged to the ground.

The second plane, piloted by Fred C. Byham, its propeller sheared off in the collision, landed safely in an open field a mile from where the other ship crashed into a tree.

Dr. U. S. Wharton, deputy Crawford County coroner, identified the victims as Arden E. Meredith, 26, Meadville, Pa., former army pilot and an air instructor; and Francis T. Myers, 20, Cambridge Springs, Pa., a student flier.

CHURCHVILLE, Md., April 4 (AP) —A former Army pilot from Baltimore was killed today and his four-year-old son critically injured today in the crash of their two-seat plane.

State police identified the dead man as James Winfred Bull, 40, who served as a glider pilot in Holland and at the Battle of the Bulge.

His son, Cris, was admitted to Harford Memorial Hospital at Havre De Grace. Attendants there reported he had suffered fractures of both arms, possible internal injuries and skull fracture, and multiple body burns from gasoline fumes.

Wallace Assails "Fear" Campaign

BOSTON, Mass., April 4 (AP) — Henry A. Wallace said today that President Truman, Defense Secretary Forrestal and Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich) are "the greatest salesmen Communism ever had."

"They are driving people to accept the radical programs of the Communists in the hope of solving their problems," Wallace said in a speech at the founding convention of the Progressive Party of Massachusetts.

"Heavy arms, the draft, compulsory military training and battleships cruising the world," he said, "won't succeed in stopping hungry and desperate peoples from demanding and getting justice and a new chance to build and prosper.

"The present administration and its bi-partisan supporters are defaulting the leadership of these people to the Communists."

The third party presidential candidate said the United States is a "nation shaking with fear" because of what he said was an "outrageous campaign to create fear" by "military men and big business men."

Union Will Hand Steel Industry Its Pay Demand

PITTSBURGH, April 4 (AP)—The steel industry tomorrow will be handed the CIO-United Steel Workers' 1948 pay increase demands.

Philip Murray, president of both the CIO and the steel workers, will open negotiations here with the big United States Steel Corporation. Other sessions will be held elsewhere with other companies.

Vessels Capsize

7 Drowned And 4 Missing In Three Boat Accidents

MT. VERNON, Ind., April 4 (AP)—Three young men and a nine-year-old boy were drowned today when an overloaded homemade boat capsized in backwaters of the flooded Wabash River 10 miles southwest of here.

Sgt. Kermit Seifert, of Mt. Vernon police, said there were nine in the boat. He said three boys and two girls were rescued.

The dead, all of whom lived in Posey County near the scene, were:

Raymond Goldman, 20; Robert Uhde, 21; Paul Denning, 20, and Ed Weatherford, 9.

First reports of the accident to state police said all nine occupants of the boat were drowned. Rescue equipment was dispatched from Evansville, 22 miles east of here, and from Princeton, Oakland City, Boonville, and Vincennes, all of Indiana.

BLAIRSVILLE, Pa., April 4 (AP)—Three youths drowned and a fourth swam to safety today as their flat-bottomed boat overturned in the Conemaugh River near here.

The lone survivor was George Grdgon, 12, Blairsville.

Coroner E. L. Fleming identified the victims as Melvin Kelly, 19; Charles Clark, 21, and Ronnie Squibbs, 9, all of Blairsville.

NEW CASTLE, Del., April 4 (AP)—Four teen-age boys were missing today after their capsized rowboat was found on the bank of the Delaware River.

The overturned boat was found by one of the nine airplanes and three Coast Guard cutters that searched the river for 60 miles. It was identified by firemen from the Holloway (Del) Terrace Company as the craft the boys took out on the choppy river yesterday.

Police identified the youths as Richard Cathell, 14; Joseph Schroeder, 13; and the Layton brothers, Horace, 11 and Hiram, 14.

Sergeant Is Arrested After Stealing B-25 Plane

DAYTON, O., April 4 (AP) — A sergeant who lacked Army flight instruction stole a B-25 plane and flew it solo from Wright Field to Minneapolis late today, the Army Air Base near here reported.

Capt. J. W. Alworth, Wright Field public relations officer, said the sergeant landed the ship without damage and was taken into custody by military police.

Alworth said the sergeant, identified only as McCrady, ignored a red light ordering him to return to the field after his takeoff and also failed to answer radio messages to him from the tower.

Body Of Missing Child Bride Found In River

GREENVILLE, Ky., April 4. (AP)—The body of Mrs. Imogene Ellison, missing child bride, was found in the Mud River 16 miles from here today with a white rag tied tightly about the neck, Muhlenberg County Sheriff Otis Robinson reported.

The sheriff said it appeared the girl either had been drowned or choked to death. The body was found by Everett Jenkins, Rochester, and two other men who were motor-boating.

Meanwhile, the girl's 37-year-old husband, Raymond Ellison, remained in jail here, unaware of the finding of the body, the sheriff said. Ellison was placed in jail last Thursday at his own request, stating he would "feel safer" there, Robinson said.

Wreckage Of Missing Air Force Plane Found

SEATTLE, April 4 (AP)—Wreckage of a missing Air Force reserve plane with three men aboard was sighted today near the top of a 5,000-foot peak near Everett, Wash.

Col. John B. Randolph, air reserve commander at McChord Field, reported from a search plane circling the site that the wreckage had been identified from numbers of a tail section as the lost-twin-engined AT-11. The peak is approximately 18 miles northeast of Everett.

He said there was no sign of life.

The crashed ship vanished Friday on a 35-mile flight from McChord to the Sand Point Naval Air Station here.

Ball Pens Help

Reynolds Eludes Chinese Guards And Flies To Tokyo

TOKYO, Monday, April 5 (AP) — Milton Reynolds arrived here late last night on an unauthorized flight from Shanghai, saying he made a melodramatic getaway by flinging ball-point pens at gun-brandishing Chinese guards.

The Chicago millionaire declared he fled to escape a financial shakedown and that his ill-fated quest for the world's highest mountain already had cost him $250,000.

Reynolds reported he got into his impounded exploration plane with his crew of three by promising the Chinese some of the pens which made him a fortune.

"They eagerly followed me; I got in and threw out the pens—50 of them—and slammed the door," he related.

Then Pilot Bill Odom gunned the engines. As tommy-gun-toting guards came running, he turned on one wheel and roared off the runway, downwind. Guards scattered like frightened chickens.

"I saw one guard with a tommy gun who was so surprised his jaw was falling off," remarked Odom. "I guess he forgot to shoot."

"I lay on the floor, holding the door shut, while Odom got us into the air," said the pen-maker.

Reynolds said they faked a course for Okinawa, then headed for Tokyo.

"We heard the Shanghai airport alerting a fighter squadron," he declared, "so for the first 350 miles we stayed about 20 feet above the ground and water."

Thus ended the acrimony-laden and fruitless hunt for a mountain in Western China suspected of being higher than Everest.

Reynolds provided the four-engined C-87 plane, "Explorer," and the crew for the expedition to the Amne Machin range in China's wild west. The Boston Museum of Science was co-sponsor.

NUERNBERG, Germany, April 14 (AP)—The trial of 22 men charged with 1,000,000 murders ends here this week.

Presiding Judge Michael A. Musmanno said today the three-man American court will hand down its judgement Thursday. Sentences will be imposed Saturday.

The 22 men commanded 500 picked plug-uglies from the SS (Nazi Elite Guard) who carried out the instructions of Adolf Hitler and Heinrich Himmler to kill every Jew, every gypsy, every "racial undesirable" in the German army's wake.

Woman And Youth Admit Car Theft After Arrest

Pair Will Get Hearings Here

A 26-year-old woman and a 19-year-old youth who were arrested in West Virginia Saturday and returned here, yesterday confessed to the theft of a convertible automobile from the Babb Motor Sales lot, 22 Wineow Street, last week, according to police.

The pair, identified as Dorothy Radcliffe, alias Dorothy White, 123 Maple Street, and formerly of Texas, and Donald Kennedy, Corriganville, are being held in City Jail pending a preliminary hearing in Trial Magistrates Court, police said.

According to Kennedy's statement, police said the pair took the car from the used car lot Thursday at 4:30 a. m. and drove to Baltimore. From there they went to Bedford and Hanover, Pa., and then back to Wiley Ford, W. Va., where they were arrested along with David A. Shelton, Hanover, by Pennsylvania State Police.

Police said Shelton denied knowledge of the stolen car, and the Radcliffe woman's and Kennedy's statements bore him out. He is being held as a witness in the case.

The car was taken from the used car lot, according to police, after the office was broken into and keys and registration card for the car taken. The Radcliffe woman told police she was formerly employed at the used car lot after coming here from Dallas, Texas.

German Prisoners Work In Soviet Uranium Mines

BERLIN, April 4. (AP)—Hundreds of German prisoners of war whom the Russians claim to have released are working as conscript labor in Soviet-operated uranium mines in Eastern Germany and Czechoslovakia, according to undisputed German press reports.

Charges that the Russians are using "freed" prisoners for such labor have appeared in the Berlin Socialist press and in the "Neue Zietung," official German newspaper of the American Military Government.

Accounts in these newspapers have included statements from PWs who, instead of being returned to their homes, have been forced to dig the atomic metal which is delivered to the Soviet Union.

MORE OIL...

...and still more is on the way!

1. Last year, this country used more oil than the whole world did in 1939 – before World War II.
2. There are 3,000,000 more cars on the road than there were before the war. And the average motorist is using 50 more gallons of gasoline per year in his car.
3. 25% more buses – 30% more trucks – serve you now than before the war.
4. Farmers have doubled their use of time-saving, work-saving tractors, trucks, and other equipment since pre-war!
5. 1,500,000 more home owners heat their homes with oil than in 1939.
6. Today, production of petroleum products has reached an all-time record high – 61% greater than before the war and 12% greater than the peak year of war-time production!
7. But you still need lots more oil. And that means new, expanded facilities for finding, producing, transporting, refining, and delivering more oil. And that's the job America's oil industry is working on right now – around the clock and with sleeves rolled up!

THE JOB AHEAD is a big job, calling for big plans and big performance.

Woman And Youth Admit Car Theft After Arrest

Pair Will Get Hearings Here

A 26-year-old woman and a 19-year-old youth who were arrested in West Virginia Saturday and returned here, yesterday confessed to the theft of a convertible automobile from the Babb Motor Sales lot, 22 Wineow Street, last week, according to police.

The pair, identified as Dorothy Radcliffe, alias Dorothy White, 123 Maple Street, and formerly of Texas, and Donald Kennedy, Corriganville, are being held in City Jail pending a preliminary hearing in Trial Magistrates Court, police said.

According to Kennedy's statement, police said the pair took the car from the used car lot Thursday at 4:30 a. m. and drove to Baltimore. From there they went to Bedford and Hanover, Pa., and then back to Wiley Ford, W. Va., where they were arrested along with David A. Shelton, Hanover, by Pennsylvania State Police.

Police said Shelton denied knowledge of the stolen car, and the Radcliffe woman's and Kennedy's statements bore him out. He is being held as a witness in the case.

The car was taken from the used car lot, according to police, after the office was broken into and keys and registration card for the car taken. The Radcliffe woman told police she was formerly employed at the used car lot after coming here from Dallas, Texas.

1. Last year, this country used more oil than the whole world did in 1939 – before World War II.

2. There are 3,000,000 more cars on the road than there were before the war. And the average motorist is using 50 more gallons of gasoline per year in his car.

Foodhandlers Courses Planned

Duplicate morning and afternoon sessions will be held when the second annual foodhandlers conference for Mineral County convenes in the Music Hall Theater on Thursday, according to William F. Waller, county health sanitation officer.

Waller stated that the two sessions, scheduled for 9:30 a. m. and 2 p. m., would be held in order to inconvenience restaurant operators as little as possible.

The program will consist of short talks by personnel of the State Health Department, lantern slides, and films emphasizing the importance of sanitary methods and facilities in the operation of establishments serving the public, the health officer stated.

Subjects to be discussed will include epidemiology of foodborn disease, personal hygiene, equipment sterilization, vermin control, and protection of foodstuffs from contamination, Waller said.

The health officer stated that it is felt that a knowledge of how diseases may be spread through carelessly handled foods will give the foodhandlers a greater feeling of personal responsibility for taking precautions necessary for the protection of the public health.

While attendance is compulsory only for members of the foodhandling profession, Waller said, representatives of clubs and other interested persons are invited to attend.

Foodhandlers Courses Planned

Duplicate morning and afternoon sessions will be held when the second annual foodhandlers conference for Mineral County convenes in the Music Hall Theater on Thursday, according to William F. Waller, county health sanitation officer.

Waller stated that the two sessions, scheduled for 9:30 a. m. and 2 p. m., would be held in order to inconvenience restaurant operators as little as possible.

The program will consist of short talks by personnel of the State Health Department, lantern slides, and films emphasizing the importance of sanitary methods and facilities in the operation of establishments serving the public, the health officer stated.

Subjects to be discussed will include epidemiology of foodborn disease, personal hygiene, equipment sterilization, vermin control, and protection of foodstuffs from contamination, Waller said.

The health officer stated that it is felt that a knowledge of how diseases may be spread through carelessly handled foods will give the foodhandlers a greater feeling of personal responsibility for taking precautions necessary for the protection of the public health.

While attendance is compulsory only for members of the foodhandling profession, Waller said, representatives of clubs and other interested persons are invited to attend.

Rest Home Inmate Held For Setting 2 Fires In Room

Edward Abbott, 63, Held For Grand Jury

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, W. Va.—Edward Lee Abbott, 63, retired mine foreman of Fairmont, was arrested by Sheriff D. E. Crosten and City Policeman Howard Ferguson Friday night after, police said, he confessed to setting fire to the large wardrobe in his room at the Nelle Rest Home where he has been a private patient for the past two months.

The Parsons Volunteer Fire Department was called to the Rest Home last Monday morning to extinguish a fire in the linen closet in Abbott's room on the second floor. When the fire broke out again in the same room but in the wardrobe which was filled with clothing belonging to the patients there, Fire Chief Corcoran called the officers to make the arrest.

The fire damaged linen of the home to the estimated extent of $50 on Monday evening and to $75 on Friday evening. The loss is partially covered by insurance. Abbott is now in the county jail awaiting his hearing before Justice of the Peace Lawrence Lipscomb.

Republican Party Has Fulfilled Another Pledge

The Republican Party has fulfilled another promise to the people.

During the 1946 campaign, the G.O.P. pledged itself to bring about a reduction in income taxes if it were at all possible. The Republican victory at the polls was interpreted as a mandate to do so. But is required two years and two months to bring it about because two previous attempts were vetoed by President Truman, and on both occasions he was upheld because there were not sufficient Republicans in Congress to pile up the required two-third majorities to override.

A large enough number of Democrats who voted to sustain Mr. Truman last year swung over to the Republican side this (election year) time to make possible overriding the President's third veto. Mr. Truman based his argument this time for a veto on the fact that international conditions had reached such a state that to reduce federal income now would prove unwise. He offered similar reasons for his vetoes last year when the international situation was less serious. He contended it would impair national strength by causing a budget deficit and by increasing inflation.

He has been so wrong in the past when his estimates of revenue have been far too conservative, that the Republicans brushed aside his reasoning. It is the opinion of those in a position to know that Mr. Truman exaggerates the inflationary effect of the tax reduction measure. They also are satisfied that the budget will withstand the defense program and expenditures.

To be sure, should international conditions become so serious as to make necessary more extensive defense preparations taxes may have to be increased again, and until that is determined the tax reduction voted by Congress should be treated as a temporary easing of the tax burden.

On the other hand, world conditions could improve within a year's time which could make the tax cut more or less permanent. But whatever the future holds, the passage of the tax reduction bill over Mr. Truman's veto is welcomed by millions who have felt for a long time that they should have some relief from wartime assessments.

Eastern university has started a course in sleeping. It is to be hoped it will find something more potent than that sheep-counting fake.

Two Berlin Incidents; Both Outgrowth Of War

For months Soviet Russia has been trying to make things so uncomfortable for the American, British and French authorities in Berlin that they would quit the city in disgust. That effort conspicuously failed. Now the Russians have decided to put the screws on and force the western powers out of their treaty position in Berlin. Up to now that, too, has failed. The United States, for one, will not knuckle.

On less than 24 hours, notice, Russia issued a declaration that none of the 25,000 Americans, British and French soldiers and civilians could leave or enter Berlin without her consent. For this purpose, the Russians set up a number of military control points throughout the occupation zone, which stretches from Berlin to within 70 miles of the U. S. occupation zone headquarters at Frankfurt, and even nearer to British headquarters. In Moscow's view, the western representatives are in Berlin at the sufferance of Russia and may be isolated at her choosing.

That edict was, of course, a flat unilateral violation of the four-power agreement under which the administration of Berlin was set up. It is clear, from statements in Pravda, that Russia now regards the agreement as a thing of the past and Berlin as her property. The Western powers think otherwise. Denying the Russian right of inspection and unable to move our trains and cars past Russian road blocks, General Clay has ordered all transportation of men and freight by plane from Frankfurt to Templehof airdrome in the U. S. military zone in Berlin. The Russians can stop those planes only by shooting them down, which would be an act of war.

While awaiting the aftermath of this incident at Berlin, it is well to recall another that ocurred during the last weeks of World War II. Gen. Patton's army had swept eastward through the German lines to the outskirts of Berlin. There he was stopped, by order of President Roosevelt, and commanded to retreat more than 150 miles westward, there to wait until the Red Army laboriously moved up to "liberate Berlin." In retrospect, that was one of the most disastrous judgments of the man who thought that he, personally, could "manage Stalin."

Psychologist says women have more car accidents but fewer fatalities. He takes no stock in Kipling's theory that the female of the species is more deadly than the male.

Bill To Repeal Margarine Tax Forced To House Floor

There is a better than an even chance that something will yet be done about the proposal to repeal federal taxes on margarine. Advocates of the repeal measure have succeeded in prying the legislation loose from the House Agriculture committee by securing the required number of signatures—218—to a petition which will give the full membership of the lower branch of Congress an opportunity to express their opinion through their votes.

Unlike some states, the sale of margarine is not banned in Maryland, so the only interest the Free Staters have in the congressional battle is to see the federal tax, which is looked upon as an inequality, removed.

The dairy interests and the rural legislators were largely responsible for keeping the measure in committee. The House group shelved the federal proposal because of pressure, and in so doing was denying to all members of Congress the right to act on the bill.

That was not the way to handle the matter. The country is not going to lose much revenue should the tax be repealed. The real question is one of the merits of margarine and whether it should continue to be singled out for discriminatory taxation and the public penalized for choosing it in preference to butter. On such a matter all of Congress should have a right to express an opinion. And the way things look, that opinion will be for repeal of the federal taxes.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Health Care Of The Navajos

During the past few months, newspapers and magazines have made all of us aware of the problems of the Navajo Indians. The Journal of the American Medical Association recently reported the results of a survey made by seven physicians sent to the southwest by the Department of the Interior to investigate the medical aspects of the situation.

Undernourishment and vitamin deficiencies are rife. This is due not only to poverty but to poor selection of food and improper eating habits. Financial aid, therefore, must go hand in hand with education in nutrician. Sanitation is neglected and instruction in sewage and garbage disposal is also essential.

Tuberculosis is prevalent but the physicians in question were unable to make an accurate statement on its incidence because adequate records were not available. The death rate of infants and children is higher than the national average; one-half of the hospital occupants were youngsters suffering from diarrhea and infectious diseases. Infant care has not been changed or improved among the Navajos in many generations.

At the present time the health facilities are built around a system of widely scattered hospitals. The report states that five are operating, 3 are closed, and 1 is without a physician. With the exception of the tuberculosis division at Fort Defiance, none of the hospitals was more than half-full. Furthermore, fifty per cent of the beds were occupied by individuals who did not need hospitalization. Some were overstaying their convalescent leave; others were mothers awaiting recovery of their sick babies or vice versa. Some of the patients in these institutions were receiving good medical care; others were not.

Much of the difficulty rests with the large area to be serviced—25,000 square miles — and the fact that most of the roads are impassable. Many Indians live over 100 miles from the hospital; consequently early treatment is the exception rather than the rule. A large number arrive in a dying condition and it is little wonder that the hospital death rates are so high. Lack of ambulances and other means of transportation add to the plight of the peoples.

The committee discouraged large capital expenditures for hospital facilities but recommended more adequate field service. For example, they believe that a well qualified physician and nurse, serving as a unit and operating from various health centers throughout the reservation, would be more satisfactory. This plan encourages early treatment and reduces the number needing hospitalization.

The health care should be under the supervision of medical men who understand what is required. Our veterans obtained better medical service when the VA was reorganized without political restraint. In this way, physicians who are willing to do this type of work are assured of proper equipment and an opportunity to keep up to date in medicine. Arrangements could be made with consultants and specialists for periodic visits to the territory, as is now done in the VA.

Edgy Teeth

A. I. writes: Every time I drink anything cold or hot my front teeth hurt. I feel sure there are no cavities. What is the trouble?

REPLY

Teeth are sensitive to heat and cold, especially if the pulp is exposed. The heat that is generated during drilling is sometimes the most painful part of the excavation. I would suggest a visit to your dentist.

Numbness

Mrs. F. writes: I am 43 years old and in good health. But for the past few months I have had constant numbness of the right hand and arm. Is this poor circulation?

REPLY

It could be but other disorders, such as anemia and neuritis, can cause the condition. It should be investigated.

Lazy Thyroid

H. W. writes: Can a minus 27 metabolism make a man weak and tired?

REPLY

Yes, provided other findings of hypothyroidism exist. These include dry skin, slow pulse, and mental and physical sluggishness as well as fatigue.

Damaged Ear

R. G. writes: Can cauliflower ears be set back in the same position?

REPLY

Yes, plastic surgery is often of value.

Other Ways Better

Mrs. D. writes: Will a woman's blood or urine give any clew as to whether she is in the change of life?

REPLY

According to Gardner, blood and urine tests are available but they are far from reliable. Examination of certain cells in the pelvic secretions fall into the same category but considerable research is now in progress with examinations of this type because they are easier to perform.

Thyroid Enlargement

S. W. writes: Does a goiter cause pain?

REPLY

Only if large enough to press on neighboring structures.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Justice Burton Plays Role Of Good Samaritan; Eisenhower's Spokesman May Have Spoken Out Of Turn; Pullman Porter Chief Rowed With Truman

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, April 4—A crippled beggar was pushing his wheel chair along a rainy Washington street. The pavement was wet. Crossing the street, the rubber tires of the wheel chair slipped, finally stalled at the curb. The chair wouldn't budge.

A stranger, hurrying through the drizzle, stepped over to the wheel chair and gave it a push.

The cripple wiped his face with a soiled service cap and thanked the stranger, who asked where he was going.

"To the Union Station," was the reply, "to get out of the rain."

The well-dressed stranger offered to push the wheel chair to the station.

"We'll go there together," said the stranger, pushing the wheel chair ahead of him.

"Work for the Government?" asked the cripple as they proceeded.

"Yes."

"Veterans Administration?"

"No."

"Where do you work?" persisted the wheel-chair passenger.

"Over in the court."

"Which court?"

"The Supreme Court."

The beggar twisted his head around for a good look at the man who was pushing him through the rain.

"Which one are you?" he asked, realizing at last that his escort was one of the nine most potent judges in the land.

The man who had rescued him was Justice Harold Burton.

Note—Probably no one would have heard about this incident, had not the cripple, privately skeptical, turned up next day at the Supreme Court and demanded to see Justice Burton. After a long session with the marshal, the man in the wheel chair was ushered into Burton's chambers and visited once more with the judge.

Did Ike Say "No"?

Politicians thought they had a negative answer to the $64 question, "Will Eisenhower run as a Democrat?" when Maj. Gen. Floyd Parks, Army chief public-relations officer, said that Eisenhower's "no" to the Republicans applied equally to the Democrats.

However, New Hampshire publisher Leonard V. Finder, to whom Eisenhower wrote his famous letter declining a Republican draft, hit the ceiling when he read Parks' statement. Convinced it hadn't come from Eisenhower, he phoned Parks, asked him point blank if he had talked with Ike before stating that Eisenhower would not accept a Democratic party draft.

Parks readily admitted that he had not talked to Ike before making his latest statement, said this was basically his own view. He was sorry, he told Finder, the papers had given his "no draft" statement such a big play.

Pullman Porter Chief At White House

When Pullman porter president A. Philip Randolph told the Senate Armed Services Committee that Negroes would risk treason rather than serve in a segregated army and navy, it wasn't news to President Truman.

The President had had a stormy private session with the head of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters a short time before. Calling to ask that an anti-segregation clause be inserted in any selective service or military training bill, Randolph described Negro bitterness over segregation in the late war, and added:

"I'm afraid there are many Negroes who would not want to shoulder arms if we get into another war, Mr. President. They feel if they are fighting for a democracy, they should have democracy here at home first."

Indignant, President Truman reprimanded the Pullman porter chief.

"We are doing all we can to preserve world peace," he said, "but if there is another war, everyone must serve his country to the best of his ability."

"I didn't mean to offend you, Mr. President," Randolph quickly apologized. "But those are the facts. I've been sounding out many Negroes on the Universal Military Training program and they don't like the way it's being handled. Out of all the youth trained at the Army's experimental UMT school at Fort Knox, there wasn't a single Negro.

"Unless Congress outlaws this type of segregation, Negroes will continue to believe that the Government is sponsoring Jim Crow."

The President said he realized there is still some discrimination against Negroes.

"But," he added, "we can't eliminate it overnight. It takes time. We are doing our best. Certainly, everybody should know by this time how I stand on the issue."

Randolph assured the President that he considered his civil-rights message a "courageous and democratic" document that had given much hope to American Negroes.

Merry-Go-Round

Despite the hoodlums, gangsters and mobsters plying their trade along Miami Beach, the T-men are busy probing the income taxes of doctors. The Treasury men will start soon on lawyers. . . Credit Mayor George Welsh of Grand Rapids, Mich., for getting the name of Burton Behling withdrawn from the Senate as Federal Power Commissioner. Welsh quietly laid a memo on the President's desk showing that Behling's vote for the big natural-gas companies would cost American gas-users around $70,000,000 a year. Truman withdrew Behling immediately. . . Irving Geist, who helped build the four chaplains' interfaith Bronx swimming pool for veterans, got the Navy Bureau of Medicine's highest award. . . Congressmen are being offered a special device by Audiotechnics of New York to ascertain whether their phones are tapped. In these days of Forrestal sleuthing, they need it. . . Congratulations to the people of Meadville, Pa., who plan to celebrate Army Day, April 6, by sending a carload of Friendship Train food to the people of Fismes, 70 miles north of Paris. Just thirty years ago a National Guard unit from Meadville liberated Fismes.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The Core Of Our Strength

WASHINGTON.

THE odds are still on peace. Yet for the first time the possibilities of war—not next year, nor in five years, nor in ten years, but war in the next weeks or months—is admitted by sober leaders of the government. It is time to take stock of our strength. It is time especially to ask whether if the worst happens, we really can deliver the knock-out blow, which will be the only means of avoiding a long, drawn-out, world-destroying war of attrition.

The answer to this riddle depends on two questions. First, does our monopoly of the atomic bomb really permit us to knock out a great land power like the Soviet Union? Second, have we the capability of delivering atomic bombs to the Soviet Union's vital centers?

No question is more bitterly debated by the services than the first. The best that can be said is that the political and economic experts who have devoted their lives to studying the Soviet system believe that its war-making power will rapidly disintegrate if its vital centers are destroyed. If this is correct, everything depends on our own capability to deliver the atomic bomb to these vital centers. And this means, of course, that everything depends on the capability of our strategic aircraft to strike over great distances into the Soviet heartland.

Recent rigorous tests show that standard B-29's, operating with standard crews, can strike at targets more than 2,000 miles distant and return from their mission. With this range, bases in the Western Hemisphere can not be used. But it is inconceivable that the Red Army can simultaneously and instantaneously overrun western Europe, the Mediterranean, the Middle East and northern India. From any of these regions, aircraft with an operating radius of 2,000 miles can reach the Soviet heartland.

Furthermore, it may seem strange; but it is a simple operational fact that B-29s can now be equipped for re-fueling in the air. They are thus enabled to strike at and return from vastly more distant targets. The system sounds so much like one of the more lurid comic strips that most people find its effectiveness difficult to credit. But air re-fueling has been fully tested by the British, and has even been used in passenger operations. With only one re-fueling on the way out, B-29s can strike at and return from targets 3,000 miles distant. Re-fueling on the way out and on the way home, they can reach targets 4,000 miles distant. Modification of the B-29s to permit air re-fueling is just as important in Boeing's huge new modification contract as adaptation of the aircraft to receive atomic bombs.

Thus the capability to penetrate the Soviet heartland already exists. But can the B-29s, driving home the attack across the huge spaces of Russia, survive interception by high-altitude, high-speed German jet fighters which the Soviets have been hastily producing since the end of the war?

Here again, rigorous tests have been conducted with B-29 aircraft flying over an area with as dense and strong a radar warning system as now exists in the world. Of the B-29's engaged in the test, 60 per cent were located by the warning net. After location, fighters found 40 per cent.

Under war conditions, of course, only this 40 per cent would have been subject to fighter attack. Equally, of course, the B-29's defensive armament would have accounted for some of the fighters. The inference is that only a limited number of these B-29s would have failed to accomplish their mission, even against the heaviest odds.

But the Soviet Union, far from having a dense and strong radar warning system, has a warning system almost as feeble as our own. In the United States we have nothing that can properly be termed full warning, because it would cost several billions of dollars and demand the imposition of every kind of industrial priority to throw a true warning net over North America. The Soviets have, at best, limited warning nets narrowly surrounding their most important centers. This weakness would at least double the odds on the B-29s, and halve their percentage of loss. In short, the strategic air arm can do the job, according to the best calculations, or rather the best guesses, that can be made at this time.

In the circumstances, it is difficult to understand the decision to slight the air arm in the program for expanding the defense services. Secretary of Defense Forrestal has fantastically explained that putting through the repartedly recommended 70-air-group program would cost $15 billions additional. But this is a recommended peacetime air strength, and the secretary's figure represents the total cost of mobilizing all the services on a war footing. The actual cost of the 70-group program would be about $1.5 billions extra the first year and $2.7 billions the second. It does not seem much to gamble on the only weapon which may perhaps prevent another war from becoming, quite literally, the beginning of a Dark Age.

Many Factors Connected With New Building To Hold Up Cost

By ROGER W. BABSON

NEW YORK, April 4—There are many factors connected with new building today which should hold up cost for some time. Most of the increase is due to two main causes:

(1) The increased powers of labor unions causing higher wages, shorter hours, and poorer work. This is partly due to the higher cost of living, restrictions as to apprentices, and the increased demand for houses. This labor cost applies from the cutting of the timber in the forest through every step of transportation, milling, superintending, marketing, etc. up to the real estate man who sells the house. Moreover, this costly situation is encouraged by Federal and State labor laws, municipal codes, social security deductions and a dozen more additions.

(2) Another factor is the taxes which must be paid by those who cut the tree, mill the timber, sell the lumber and other building material—as well as the taxes which the contractor must pay. These all snowball up one upon another with this result: The house which ten years ago cost $6,000 now costs $12,000; but 50 per cent of this increase is due to the increased taxes which our present Administration at Washington collects.

Houses Recently Built

In view of the above, I seriously doubt if the cost of building new houses will decline much for some years. It is true that the quality of building materials should improve and that labor may give more value for a dollar of wages because non-union labor competition will become more plentiful. Ultimately, there will be a decline in building costs to a point about half way between the cost of ten years ago and the cost today. Even such a decline, however, is some time away. So much for new construction.

Now as to the price during the next few years of houses already built. There is no building boom ahead. Residential building in 1948 may be less than in 1947; while 1949 may be less than 1948 owing to war preparation restrictions. When Universal Military Training and the Draft take effect, contractors will begin to unload. They may be glad to get out even and some will be forced to take losses. It's all a question of supply and demand influenced by war preparations. Thus far more people have been moving into most cities—especially returning veterans—than there were houses. Now some of these people will wish to leave and to sell their houses. At first, this may be easy; but after the supply of such houses exceeds the present demand—prices could crumble fast. So much for houses built during the past three years.

What About Old Houses?

The most attractive thing in real estate—outside of properly located subsistence farms—are old well-built-houses in the best sections of small cities. These can still be bought for half what they would today cost new—and in many cases are better than they could be built at any price. As people become more war conscious and as the draft takes young men, they will gradually sell their homes in large cities and move into safe communities.

Hence, while big city property is going down in price, these small city properties may be going up in price. If you own such a house, continue to hold it. If you live in a good section, buy a house next to you as an investment. Many of these old houses will double in price while the new houses built for veterans during the past few years may sell at perhaps one-half what is now being asked for them. Unless you want one of these now, then wait for distress sales.

What About War Outlook

A great question is whether a war boom honeymoon is again ahead of us? If so, houses, ranches, and most city property could hold up awhile longer. There will be no war this year; but the very preparation for war should stimulate certain buying and retard other buying. One thing that looks good are certain large houses—now on the open market at very low prices—which can be made over into apartments. There will always be a demand for well-located apartments. Even these you should live in or near and attend to. There now is no easy way to make money in real estate.

Science In Soviet Russia

I HAVE COME ACROSS a small book entitled, "Science in Soviet Russia," consisting of papers presented at the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship, held in New York, on November 7, 1943, under the auspices of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

The Foreword was written by Professor L. C. Dunn, who signed himself as Chairman, Science Committee, National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. This is the same Professor Dunn about whom I have been writing during the past weeks.

In his Foreword, Professor Dunn says:

"It is the objective of this committee to foster and promote closer relations, cooperation and exchange between American and Soviet scientists, to facilitate translating and abstracting of scientific literature and to arrange exchange visits of scientific professors and students."

This is a noble thought, but in my articles I have asked Professor Dunn to list the American contributions to Soviet Russia against the Russian contributions to the United States so that we may see how they stack up. The book itself tells considerable that is interesting. For instance, Professor Walter B. Cannon, of Harvard University, wrote:

". . .May we hopefully look forward to more and more intimate cooperation and to interchange of ideas and friendly visits as year after year of peace comes to us and that thereby the bonds of fellowship and understanding between our two countries will become firmly strengthened and greatly multiplied."

Well, maybe Professor Cannon can give us the list of items that Soviet Russia contributed to the United States. That would be more convincing than all the round-term statements which these scientists, who always criticize the theologians for inexactitudes, give us. Perhaps much of it is of the nature of the comment of Dr. Vladimir K. Zworykin, Research Director R.C.A. Laboratories. Dr. Zworykin tells how wonderful the Russians are in the field of electronics. Then he adds:

". . .This system utilized equipment and designs purchased from this country. . .We have often heard expressions of the appreciation which is shown in the Soviet Union for the help received from the American electronic industry. This help is particularly important when every effort is being devoted to expelling the fascist invaders. We know also how well the commanding staff and personnel of the Red Army familiarize themselves with all electronic equipment for radio communication and other military purposes delivered from the United States and how well they use it in the fight against common enemy."

In other words, we gave them our equipment, made in the United States, by American engineers, working for American companies and they were grateful for our kindness—for a time. But what did they send us? Professor Dunn ends his article in this volume:

"For the sake of biological science itself, we biologists should use all our efforts to see that the barriers which separated Soviet biology and biologists from us should never again be allowed to prevent the free flow of persons and ideas, both scientific and social, on which the progress of science and of society depends."

I agree entirely. Will Professor Dunn provide a list of American biologists who have been permitted to study in Soviet Russia, to work in its laboratories and to bring out to the United States the results of his and their labors? Fair exchange is not a one-way road.

Professor Austin W. Curtis, Jr., Director of Agricultural Research Station, Tuskegee Institute, says in this book:

"Russia, as any progressive people will do, copied from this nation those things which she felt were worthwhile and would contribute to the development of her nation. . . The Soviet Union with scientific exactness appropriated for her use those methods from our system that she considered adaptable and congruous in meeting the problems with which she was faced in creating her nation for the people."

That is a very correct statement of the case, but what did they give us? What opportunity have they given our people to study there? Let us say from 1917 to 1948 how many American scientists have been able to work in Russia, stay there for a prolonged period and bring out for the advancement of human knowledge what they found? And stack up against what we have done for the Russians.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

The Santa Fe Railroad celebrated its 100,000,000th mile of diesel locomotive operation with a big banquet last week, and the president of the company invited me to attend. He claims I have a lot in common with a diesel engine. . .we both run on oil.

It was really an unusual experience being at a banquet for railroad men. After every course a conductor came around and punched the menu.

The favorite topic of discussion, of course, was the modern new trains now being installed on all the lines. In fact, I hear they're going to be so swanky the engineers will wear top hats, white ties, and mink overalls.

And, naturally, the hobos riding the rods will have to wear jackets. I know. . .I wore a sport shirt once and got thrown off.

These new trains will have all the modern conveniences. You won't need a ladder to get into the upper berth any more. . .the porter will just bring you a pair of elevated slippers.

As an added luxury for the passengers they're going to show movies on all the new trains. In fact, they're even going to show my pictures. But they're not worried. . . all the cars are air-conditioned.

The banquet was to celebrate the achievements of the diesel engine, but, of course, not all the trains are run by diesels. They've got special cars for presidential candidates. . . they run on steam.

That banquet hall was really full of engineers. They must have been engineers. When I got up to speak, they all shouted, "throttle him."

Baering Down On The News

The House voted itself the right to look into all government secrets before Mr. Truman learns them from newspaper columnists.

This is almost a breach of the right of smirch and sneezer guaranteed by the Constitution. As I said before, the monkey that sees no evil, hears no evil and speaks no evil, would have no fun in the barrel with the other monkeys.

Republican Party Has Fulfilled Another Pledge

The Republican Party has fulfilled another promise to the people.

During the 1946 campaign, the G.O.P. pledged itself to bring about a reduction in income taxes if it were at all possible. The Republican victory at the polls was interpreted as a mandate to do so. But is required two years and two months to bring it about because two previous attempts were vetoed by President Truman, and on both occasions he was upheld because there were not sufficient Republicans in Congress to pile up the required two-third majorities to override.

A large enough number of Democrats who voted to sustain Mr. Truman last year swung over to the Republican side this (election year) time to make possible overriding the President's third veto. Mr. Truman based his argument this time for a veto on the fact that international conditions had reached such a state that to reduce federal income now would prove unwise. He offered similar reasons for his vetoes last year when the international situation was less serious. He contended it would impair national strength by causing a budget deficit and by increasing inflation.

He has been so wrong in the past when his estimates of revenue have been far too conservative, that the Republicans brushed aside his reasoning. It is the opinion of those in a position to know that Mr. Truman exaggerates the inflationary effect of the tax reduction measure. They also are satisfied that the budget will withstand the defense program and expenditures.

To be sure, should international conditions become so serious as to make necessary more extensive defense preparations taxes may have to be increased again, and until that is determined the tax reduction voted by Congress should be treated as a temporary easing of the tax burden.

On the other hand, world conditions could improve within a year's time which could make the tax cut more or less permanent. But whatever the future holds, the passage of the tax reduction bill over Mr. Truman's veto is welcomed by millions who have felt for a long time that they should have some relief from wartime assessments.

Eastern university has started a course in sleeping. It is to be hoped it will find something more potent than that sheep-counting fake.

Two Berlin Incidents; Both Outgrowth Of War

For months Soviet Russia has been trying to make things so uncomfortable for the American, British and French authorities in Berlin that they would quit the city in disgust. That effort conspicuously failed. Now the Russians have decided to put the screws on and force the western powers out of their treaty position in Berlin. Up to now that, too, has failed. The United States, for one, will not knuckle.

On less than 24 hours, notice, Russia issued a declaration that none of the 25,000 Americans, British and French soldiers and civilians could leave or enter Berlin without her consent. For this purpose, the Russians set up a number of military control points throughout the occupation zone, which stretches from Berlin to within 70 miles of the U. S. occupation zone headquarters at Frankfurt, and even nearer to British headquarters. In Moscow's view, the western representatives are in Berlin at the sufferance of Russia and may be isolated at her choosing.

That edict was, of course, a flat unilateral violation of the four-power agreement under which the administration of Berlin was set up. It is clear, from statements in Pravda, that Russia now regards the agreement as a thing of the past and Berlin as her property. The Western powers think otherwise. Denying the Russian right of inspection and unable to move our trains and cars past Russian road blocks, General Clay has ordered all transportation of men and freight by plane from Frankfurt to Templehof airdrome in the U. S. military zone in Berlin. The Russians can stop those planes only by shooting them down, which would be an act of war.

While awaiting the aftermath of this incident at Berlin, it is well to recall another that ocurred during the last weeks of World War II. Gen. Patton's army had swept eastward through the German lines to the outskirts of Berlin. There he was stopped, by order of President Roosevelt, and commanded to retreat more than 150 miles westward, there to wait until the Red Army laboriously moved up to "liberate Berlin." In retrospect, that was one of the most disastrous judgments of the man who thought that he, personally, could "manage Stalin."

Psychologist says women have more car accidents but fewer fatalities. He takes no stock in Kipling's theory that the female of the species is more deadly than the male.

Bill To Repeal Margarine Tax Forced To House Floor

There is a better than an even chance that something will yet be done about the proposal to repeal federal taxes on margarine. Advocates of the repeal measure have succeeded in prying the legislation loose from the House Agriculture committee by securing the required number of signatures—218—to a petition which will give the full membership of the lower branch of Congress an opportunity to express their opinion through their votes.

Unlike some states, the sale of margarine is not banned in Maryland, so the only interest the Free Staters have in the congressional battle is to see the federal tax, which is looked upon as an inequality, removed.

The dairy interests and the rural legislators were largely responsible for keeping the measure in committee. The House group shelved the federal proposal because of pressure, and in so doing was denying to all members of Congress the right to act on the bill.

That was not the way to handle the matter. The country is not going to lose much revenue should the tax be repealed. The real question is one of the merits of margarine and whether it should continue to be singled out for discriminatory taxation and the public penalized for choosing it in preference to butter. On such a matter all of Congress should have a right to express an opinion. And the way things look, that opinion will be for repeal of the federal taxes.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Health Care Of The Navajos

During the past few months, newspapers and magazines have made all of us aware of the problems of the Navajo Indians. The Journal of the American Medical Association recently reported the results of a survey made by seven physicians sent to the southwest by the Department of the Interior to investigate the medical aspects of the situation.

Undernourishment and vitamin deficiencies are rife. This is due not only to poverty but to poor selection of food and improper eating habits. Financial aid, therefore, must go hand in hand with education in nutrician. Sanitation is neglected and instruction in sewage and garbage disposal is also essential.

Tuberculosis is prevalent but the physicians in question were unable to make an accurate statement on its incidence because adequate records were not available. The death rate of infants and children is higher than the national average; one-half of the hospital occupants were youngsters suffering from diarrhea and infectious diseases. Infant care has not been changed or improved among the Navajos in many generations.

At the present time the health facilities are built around a system of widely scattered hospitals. The report states that five are operating, 3 are closed, and 1 is without a physician. With the exception of the tuberculosis division at Fort Defiance, none of the hospitals was more than half-full. Furthermore, fifty per cent of the beds were occupied by individuals who did not need hospitalization. Some were overstaying their convalescent leave; others were mothers awaiting recovery of their sick babies or vice versa. Some of the patients in these institutions were receiving good medical care; others were not.

Much of the difficulty rests with the large area to be serviced—25,000 square miles — and the fact that most of the roads are impassable. Many Indians live over 100 miles from the hospital; consequently early treatment is the exception rather than the rule. A large number arrive in a dying condition and it is little wonder that the hospital death rates are so high. Lack of ambulances and other means of transportation add to the plight of the peoples.

The committee discouraged large capital expenditures for hospital facilities but recommended more adequate field service. For example, they believe that a well qualified physician and nurse, serving as a unit and operating from various health centers throughout the reservation, would be more satisfactory. This plan encourages early treatment and reduces the number needing hospitalization.

The health care should be under the supervision of medical men who understand what is required. Our veterans obtained better medical service when the VA was reorganized without political restraint. In this way, physicians who are willing to do this type of work are assured of proper equipment and an opportunity to keep up to date in medicine. Arrangements could be made with consultants and specialists for periodic visits to the territory, as is now done in the VA.

Edgy Teeth

A. I. writes: Every time I drink anything cold or hot my front teeth hurt. I feel sure there are no cavities. What is the trouble?

REPLY

Teeth are sensitive to heat and cold, especially if the pulp is exposed. The heat that is generated during drilling is sometimes the most painful part of the excavation. I would suggest a visit to your dentist.

Numbness

Mrs. F. writes: I am 43 years old and in good health. But for the past few months I have had constant numbness of the right hand and arm. Is this poor circulation?

REPLY

It could be but other disorders, such as anemia and neuritis, can cause the condition. It should be investigated.

Lazy Thyroid

H. W. writes: Can a minus 27 metabolism make a man weak and tired?

REPLY

Yes, provided other findings of hypothyroidism exist. These include dry skin, slow pulse, and mental and physical sluggishness as well as fatigue.

Yes, plastic surgery is often of value.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Justice Burton Plays Role Of Good Samaritan; Eisenhower's Spokesman May Have Spoken Out Of Turn; Pullman Porter Chief Rowed With Truman

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, April 4—A crippled beggar was pushing his wheel chair along a rainy Washington street. The pavement was wet. Crossing the street, the rubber tires of the wheel chair slipped, finally stalled at the curb. The chair wouldn't budge.

A stranger, hurrying through the drizzle, stepped over to the wheel chair and gave it a push.

The cripple wiped his face with a soiled service cap and thanked the stranger, who asked where he was going.

"To the Union Station," was the reply, "to get out of the rain."

The well-dressed stranger offered to push the wheel chair to the station.

"We'll go there together," said the stranger, pushing the wheel chair ahead of him.

"Work for the Government?" asked the cripple as they proceeded.

"Yes."

"Veterans Administration?"

"No."

"Where do you work?" persisted the wheel-chair passenger.

"Over in the court."

"Which court?"

"The Supreme Court."

The beggar twisted his head around for a good look at the man who was pushing him through the rain.

"Which one are you?" he asked, realizing at last that his escort was one of the nine most potent judges in the land.

The man who had rescued him was Justice Harold Burton.

Note—Probably no one would have heard about this incident, had not the cripple, privately skeptical, turned up next day at the Supreme Court and demanded to see Justice Burton. After a long session with the marshal, the man in the wheel chair was ushered into Burton's chambers and visited once more with the judge.

Did Ike Say "No"?

Politicians thought they had a negative answer to the $64 question, "Will Eisenhower run as a Democrat?" when Maj. Gen. Floyd Parks, Army chief public-relations officer, said that Eisenhower's "no" to the Republicans applied equally to the Democrats.

However, New Hampshire publisher Leonard V. Finder, to whom Eisenhower wrote his famous letter declining a Republican draft, hit the ceiling when he read Parks' statement. Convinced it hadn't come from Eisenhower, he phoned Parks, asked him point blank if he had talked with Ike before stating that Eisenhower would not accept a Democratic party draft.

Parks readily admitted that he had not talked to Ike before making his latest statement, said this was basically his own view. He was sorry, he told Finder, the papers had given his "no draft" statement such a big play.

Pullman Porter Chief At White House

When Pullman porter president A. Philip Randolph told the Senate Armed Services Committee that Negroes would risk treason rather than serve in a segregated army and navy, it wasn't news to President Truman.

The President had had a stormy private session with the head of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters a short time before. Calling to ask that an anti-segregation clause be inserted in any selective service or military training bill, Randolph described Negro bitterness over segregation in the late war, and added:

"I'm afraid there are many Negroes who would not want to shoulder arms if we get into another war, Mr. President. They feel if they are fighting for a democracy, they should have democracy here at home first."

Indignant, President Truman reprimanded the Pullman porter chief.

"We are doing all we can to preserve world peace," he said, "but if there is another war, everyone must serve his country to the best of his ability."

"I didn't mean to offend you, Mr. President," Randolph quickly apologized. "But those are the facts. I've been sounding out many Negroes on the Universal Military Training program and they don't like the way it's being handled. Out of all the youth trained at the Army's experimental UMT school at Fort Knox, there wasn't a single Negro.

"Unless Congress outlaws this type of segregation, Negroes will continue to believe that the Government is sponsoring Jim Crow."

The President said he realized there is still some discrimination against Negroes.

"But," he added, "we can't eliminate it overnight. It takes time. We are doing our best. Certainly, everybody should know by this time how I stand on the issue."

Randolph assured the President that he considered his civil-rights message a "courageous and democratic" document that had given much hope to American Negroes.

Credit Mayor George Welsh of Grand Rapids, Mich., for getting the name of Burton Behling withdrawn from the Senate as Federal Power Commissioner. Welsh quietly laid a memo on the President's desk showing that Behling's vote for the big natural-gas companies would cost American gas-users around $70,000,000 a year. Truman withdrew Behling immediately. . . Irving Geist, who helped build the four chaplains' interfaith Bronx swimming pool for veterans, got the Navy Bureau of Medicine's highest award. . . MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The Core Of Our Strength

WASHINGTON.

THE odds are still on peace. Yet for the first time the possibilities of war—not next year, nor in five years, nor in ten years, but war in the next weeks or months—is admitted by sober leaders of the government. It is time to take stock of our strength. It is time especially to ask whether if the worst happens, we really can deliver the knock-out blow, which will be the only means of avoiding a long, drawn-out, world-destroying war of attrition.

The answer to this riddle depends on two questions. First, does our monopoly of the atomic bomb really permit us to knock out a great land power like the Soviet Union? Second, have we the capability of delivering atomic bombs to the Soviet Union's vital centers?

No question is more bitterly debated by the services than the first. The best that can be said is that the political and economic experts who have devoted their lives to studying the Soviet system believe that its war-making power will rapidly disintegrate if its vital centers are destroyed. If this is correct, everything depends on our own capability to deliver the atomic bomb to these vital centers. And this means, of course, that everything depends on the capability of our strategic aircraft to strike over great distances into the Soviet heartland.

Recent rigorous tests show that standard B-29's, operating with standard crews, can strike at targets more than 2,000 miles distant and return from their mission. With this range, bases in the Western Hemisphere can not be used. But it is inconceivable that the Red Army can simultaneously and instantaneously overrun western Europe, the Mediterranean, the Middle East and northern India. From any of these regions, aircraft with an operating radius of 2,000 miles can reach the Soviet heartland.

Furthermore, it may seem strange; but it is a simple operational fact that B-29s can now be equipped for re-fueling in the air. They are thus enabled to strike at and return from vastly more distant targets. The system sounds so much like one of the more lurid comic strips that most people find its effectiveness difficult to credit. But air re-fueling has been fully tested by the British, and has even been used in passenger operations. With only one re-fueling on the way out, B-29s can strike at and return from targets 3,000 miles distant. Re-fueling on the way out and on the way home, they can reach targets 4,000 miles distant. Modification of the B-29s to permit air re-fueling is just as important in Boeing's huge new modification contract as adaptation of the aircraft to receive atomic bombs.

Thus the capability to penetrate the Soviet heartland already exists. But can the B-29s, driving home the attack across the huge spaces of Russia, survive interception by high-altitude, high-speed German jet fighters which the Soviets have been hastily producing since the end of the war?

Here again, rigorous tests have been conducted with B-29 aircraft flying over an area with as dense and strong a radar warning system as now exists in the world. Of the B-29's engaged in the test, 60 per cent were located by the warning net. After location, fighters found 40 per cent.

Under war conditions, of course, only this 40 per cent would have been subject to fighter attack. Equally, of course, the B-29's defensive armament would have accounted for some of the fighters. The inference is that only a limited number of these B-29s would have failed to accomplish their mission, even against the heaviest odds.

But the Soviet Union, far from having a dense and strong radar warning system, has a warning system almost as feeble as our own. In the United States we have nothing that can properly be termed full warning, because it would cost several billions of dollars and demand the imposition of every kind of industrial priority to throw a true warning net over North America. The Soviets have, at best, limited warning nets narrowly surrounding their most important centers. This weakness would at least double the odds on the B-29s, and halve their percentage of loss. In short, the strategic air arm can do the job, according to the best calculations, or rather the best guesses, that can be made at this time.

In the circumstances, it is difficult to understand the decision to slight the air arm in the program for expanding the defense services. Secretary of Defense Forrestal has fantastically explained that putting through the repartedly recommended 70-air-group program would cost $15 billions additional. But this is a recommended peacetime air strength, and the secretary's figure represents the total cost of mobilizing all the services on a war footing. The actual cost of the 70-group program would be about $1.5 billions extra the first year and $2.7 billions the second. It does not seem much to gamble on the only weapon which may perhaps prevent another war from becoming, quite literally, the beginning of a Dark Age.

Many Factors Connected With New Building To Hold Up Cost

By ROGER W. BABSON

NEW YORK, April 4—There are many factors connected with new building today which should hold up cost for some time. Most of the increase is due to two main causes:

(1) The increased powers of labor unions causing higher wages, shorter hours, and poorer work. This is partly due to the higher cost of living, restrictions as to apprentices, and the increased demand for houses. This labor cost applies from the cutting of the timber in the forest through every step of transportation, milling, superintending, marketing, etc. up to the real estate man who sells the house. Moreover, this costly situation is encouraged by Federal and State labor laws, municipal codes, social security deductions and a dozen more additions.

(2) Another factor is the taxes which must be paid by those who cut the tree, mill the timber, sell the lumber and other building material—as well as the taxes which the contractor must pay. These all snowball up one upon another with this result: The house which ten years ago cost $6,000 now costs $12,000; but 50 per cent of this increase is due to the increased taxes which our present Administration at Washington collects.

Houses Recently Built

In view of the above, I seriously doubt if the cost of building new houses will decline much for some years. It is true that the quality of building materials should improve and that labor may give more value for a dollar of wages because non-union labor competition will become more plentiful. Ultimately, there will be a decline in building costs to a point about half way between the cost of ten years ago and the cost today. Even such a decline, however, is some time away. So much for new construction.

Now as to the price during the next few years of houses already built. There is no building boom ahead. Residential building in 1948 may be less than in 1947; while 1949 may be less than 1948 owing to war preparation restrictions. When Universal Military Training and the Draft take effect, contractors will begin to unload. They may be glad to get out even and some will be forced to take losses. It's all a question of supply and demand influenced by war preparations. Thus far more people have been moving into most cities—especially returning veterans—than there were houses. Now some of these people will wish to leave and to sell their houses. At first, this may be easy; but after the supply of such houses exceeds the present demand—prices could crumble fast. So much for houses built during the past three years.

What About Old Houses?

The most attractive thing in real estate—outside of properly located subsistence farms—are old well-built-houses in the best sections of small cities. These can still be bought for half what they would today cost new—and in many cases are better than they could be built at any price. As people become more war conscious and as the draft takes young men, they will gradually sell their homes in large cities and move into safe communities.

Hence, while big city property is going down in price, these small city properties may be going up in price. If you own such a house, continue to hold it. If you live in a good section, buy a house next to you as an investment. Many of these old houses will double in price while the new houses built for veterans during the past few years may sell at perhaps one-half what is now being asked for them. Unless you want one of these now, then wait for distress sales.

What About War Outlook

A great question is whether a war boom honeymoon is again ahead of us? If so, houses, ranches, and most city property could hold up awhile longer. There will be no war this year; but the very preparation for war should stimulate certain buying and retard other buying. One thing that looks good are certain large houses—now on the open market at very low prices—which can be made over into apartments. There will always be a demand for well-located apartments. Even these you should live in or near and attend to. There now is no easy way to make money in real estate.

These Days

Science In Soviet Russia

I HAVE COME ACROSS a small book entitled, "Science in Soviet Russia," consisting of papers presented at the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship, held in New York, on November 7, 1943, under the auspices of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

The Foreword was written by Professor L. C. Dunn, who signed himself as Chairman, Science Committee, National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. This is the same Professor Dunn about whom I have been writing during the past weeks.

In his Foreword, Professor Dunn says:

"It is the objective of this committee to foster and promote closer relations, cooperation and exchange between American and Soviet scientists, to facilitate translating and abstracting of scientific literature and to arrange exchange visits of scientific professors and students."

This is a noble thought, but in my articles I have asked Professor Dunn to list the American contributions to Soviet Russia against the Russian contributions to the United States so that we may see how they stack up. The book itself tells considerable that is interesting. For instance, Professor Walter B. Cannon, of Harvard University, wrote:

". . .May we hopefully look forward to more and more intimate cooperation and to interchange of ideas and friendly visits as year after year of peace comes to us and that thereby the bonds of fellowship and understanding between our two countries will become firmly strengthened and greatly multiplied."

Well, maybe Professor Cannon can give us the list of items that Soviet Russia contributed to the United States. That would be more convincing than all the round-term statements which these scientists, who always criticize the theologians for inexactitudes, give us. Perhaps much of it is of the nature of the comment of Dr. Vladimir K. Zworykin, Research Director R.C.A. Laboratories. Dr. Zworykin tells how wonderful the Russians are in the field of electronics. Then he adds:

". . .This system utilized equipment and designs purchased from this country. . .We have often heard expressions of the appreciation which is shown in the Soviet Union for the help received from the American electronic industry. This help is particularly important when every effort is being devoted to expelling the fascist invaders. We know also how well the commanding staff and personnel of the Red Army familiarize themselves with all electronic equipment for radio communication and other military purposes delivered from the United States and how well they use it in the fight against common enemy."

In other words, we gave them our equipment, made in the United States, by American engineers, working for American companies and they were grateful for our kindness—for a time. But what did they send us? Professor Dunn ends his article in this volume:

"For the sake of biological science itself, we biologists should use all our efforts to see that the barriers which separated Soviet biology and biologists from us should never again be allowed to prevent the free flow of persons and ideas, both scientific and social, on which the progress of science and of society depends."

I agree entirely. Will Professor Dunn provide a list of American biologists who have been permitted to study in Soviet Russia, to work in its laboratories and to bring out to the United States the results of his and their labors? Fair exchange is not a one-way road.

Professor Austin W. Curtis, Jr., Director of Agricultural Research Station, Tuskegee Institute, says in this book:

"Russia, as any progressive people will do, copied from this nation those things which she felt were worthwhile and would contribute to the development of her nation. . . The Soviet Union with scientific exactness appropriated for her use those methods from our system that she considered adaptable and congruous in meeting the problems with which she was faced in creating her nation for the people."

That is a very correct statement of the case, but what did they give us? What opportunity have they given our people to study there? Let us say from 1917 to 1948 how many American scientists have been able to work in Russia, stay there for a prolonged period and bring out for the advancement of human knowledge what they found? And stack up against what we have done for the Russians.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

The Santa Fe Railroad celebrated its 100,000,000th mile of diesel locomotive operation with a big banquet last week, and the president of the company invited me to attend. He claims I have a lot in common with a diesel engine. . .we both run on oil.

It was really an unusual experience being at a banquet for railroad men. After every course a conductor came around and punched the menu.

The favorite topic of discussion, of course, was the modern new trains now being installed on all the lines. In fact, I hear they're going to be so swanky the engineers will wear top hats, white ties, and mink overalls.

And, naturally, the hobos riding the rods will have to wear jackets. I know. . .I wore a sport shirt once and got thrown off.

These new trains will have all the modern conveniences. You won't need a ladder to get into the upper berth any more. . .the porter will just bring you a pair of elevated slippers.

As an added luxury for the passengers they're going to show movies on all the new trains. In fact, they're even going to show my pictures. But they're not worried. . . all the cars are air-conditioned.

The banquet was to celebrate the achievements of the diesel engine, but, of course, not all the trains are run by diesels. They've got special cars for presidential candidates. . . they run on steam.

That banquet hall was really full of engineers. They must have been engineers. When I got up to speak, they all shouted, "throttle him."

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

The House voted itself the right to look into all government secrets before Mr. Truman learns them from newspaper columnists.

This is almost a breach of the right of smirch and sneezer guaranteed by the Constitution. As I said before, the monkey that sees no evil, hears no evil and speaks no evil, would have no fun in the barrel with the other monkeys.

Venezuela Plans To Ask Plebiscites

BOGOTA, Colombia, April 4 (AP)—Venezuela plans to introduce this week at the Pan-American Conference a proposal to hold plebiscites in European possessions in the Americas to determine their political future.

A spokesman for the Venezuelan delegation said former President Romulo Betancourt will make the proposal in an address at a plenary session.

It is presumed here the proposal would be aimed generally at British, Dutch and French possessions in the Western Hemisphere other than the Antarctic and the Falkland Islands. In the Antarctic, Chile and Argentina oppose British claims, while in the Falklands Argentina claims ownership despite British occupation.

The spokesman said Betancourt will take the position that colonies in the Americas are no longer logical because of the United States revolution of 1776 and subsequent Latin American liberation from Spain. Betancourt also will argue that the Atlantic Charter and the Act of Chapultepec condemn colonial regimes, the informant said.

Venezuela and Bolivia plan to ask the United States to increase assistance to Latin America as a necessary complement to the European recovery program. Both countries are expected to accept Secretary of State George C. Marshall's dictum that European needs take precedence but also will argue that some definite provision must be made for Latin America.

Jewish War Veterans Stage Protest Parade

NEW YORK, April 4—(AP)—More than 26,000 Jewish war veterans from 13 states and the District of Columbia marched down Fifth Avenue today carrying placards in protest against United States policy toward Palestine.

At the end of the line of march in Madison Square Park Memorial, services were held for Jews killed in Palestine.

The parade included contingents from New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Ohio, Virginia, Delaware, New Hampshire, Maine, Vermont, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

Reynolds Eludes

After a number of delays and other mischances, the plane was damages at Peiping last Wednesday in the takeoff for Western China. Reynolds abruptly announced that the whole deal was off.

On Friday he fled unscheduled from Shanghai, but returned 13 hours later.

Dr. A.P.T. Sah, director general of China's Academia Sinica, immediately charged that Reynolds had tried to find the mountain by himself, freezing out the American and Chinese scientists. At Sah's demand, Chinese authorities impounded the plane and put it under armed guard.

Reynolds said he had been heading for the United States via Calcutta but turned back because he lacked Indian visas.

In a hectic session with a committee of Chinese scientists in Nanking Saturday, he offered to take eight of them on a one-trip-only survey of the mountains.

The Chinese haughtily refused until they could consult their colleagues they said were stranded in distant Lanchow by the sudden cancellation.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

Billy Rose

The other night I was kicking the conversational gong around with a movie director. I won't use his name for reasons which will be apparent by the time you're through with this piece.

"As soon as I finish directing a movie," said my friend, "I take the first plane back to Broadway. By hanging on to my New York address, I hope to keep from becoming a beachcomber."

"Come again," I said.

"Almost everyone who goes to Hollywood becomes a beachcomber," explained the director. "To begin with, it's manana country—it rains for a month or it suns for six months. Either they don't want you at all or they pay you too much. And when they pay you too much, you begin buttering up the boss. This does funny things to your ego and you get the jumps. To stand them off, you try booze and telephone numbers. And then it's only a question of time before your insides dry up and blow away into the Pacific. When that happens, you put on the white duck pants, squat on the sands at Malibu and wait for a case of gin to float in."

"That's an old beef," I said, "and I generally hear it from guys who are drawing down three G's a week. I meet plenty of Hollywood people here in New York and they don't seem fuzzy."

"You meet them for ten minutes," said the director. "You don't have to work with them. You know Larry McCoy?"

"You mean the big-shot producer?" I said.

"The same," said the director. "Not long ago he asked me to do a picture for him. And I was plenty worried when I took on the assignment. When Larry is bright, he's awfully bright, but there are times when his mind gets to dialing wrong numbers.

'The scrift called for a girl who combined acting know-how and marquee strength — someone who looked like Jennifer Jones and could emote like Barbara Bel Geddes. Not an easy order. The day after I started lining up a cast, McCoy waltzed a blonde magoo into my office. You know the type—tall, chesty and a lot of grapefruit-colored hair.

"Here's your leading lady," he told me.

"That evening at Romanoff's I spotted McCoy in a booth with the blonde. Midnight he was on the floor dancing with her at Ciro's. Next morning I told Larry to get himself another boy. No picture with my name on it was going to be messed up because the producer felt like playing footsie. The Fatty Arbuckle days were over.

"Larry listened, closed the door and sat down. After staring at my ash tray for a full minute, he said, 'Let me level with you. I met this dame at a party a few nights ago, and she knocked me witless. I haven't slept four hours in the last four days. Unless she gets this part, baby isn't going to make with the kisses. And without those kisses, I might as well chuck myself out the window. I've got it that bad.'

•—•—•

"I told Larry I was sorry, but I wasn't fouling up my career to make Kinsey happy. 'At least shoot a test of her,' McCoy pleaded.

"That much I couldn't refuse, seeing as how the man was paying me a mighty fine dollar. I sent for the casting director and asked him to get me some dope on the newcomer.

"'Newcomer your Aunt Sarah,' said the casting man. 'This babe has been around Hollywood for years. I can show you a dozen pictures in which she played bit parts.'

"'How come McCoy doesn't know her work then?' I asked.

"'Search me,' said the casting director, unless it's the whisky—the five hundred barrels that Larry has lapped up in the past ten years. The laugh is he used to run around with this girl. It only lasted a week, but it was quite a thing.'

"'McCoy told me he first met this girl a few days ago,' I said.

"'I think I know the answer to that one,' said the casting man. When Larry was stuck on her, she was a brunette and a bit on the plump side. She went back to New York a couple of years ago, slimmed down and decided to take another crack at Hollywood as a blonde.'

"I warned the casting director to keep his theories to himself. But I knew he was right. Larry's punchy brain hadn't recognized his seven-day sweetie in her blonde get-up, but his emotions had. Blonde or brunette, the girl could still give him the jim-jams. The old zing was still there.

"What to do? Well, after thinking about it a while, I decided to give it to McCoy straight."

"How did the producer take it?" I asked.

"Like a reprieve from the governor," said my friend. "He grinned, mumbled something about being a monkey's uncle, and never gave her a thought after that."

Administration Wants War, Taylor Declares

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., April 4 (AP)—Sen. Glen H. Taylor (D-Idaho) said today that "the Democratic administration would like to get a war started by November to help re-elect President Truman."

The candidate for Vice President on the third party ticket of Henry A. Wallace made the accusation at a news conference before speaking at the organizing convention of the Progressive Party of West Virginia.

"Our government has fallen into the hands of a gang," he told newsmen. "Gang is a good name for them because that's what they called Goering and Goebles and that bunch."

In his speech to the convention, the Senator called for the election of Wallace as "the only sure means" of stopping what he said was the drive to militarize and regiment the country.

Junior Order Plans County-Wide Initiation

A county-wide initiation of 150 to 175 candidates into the Junior Order, United American Mechanics, will be held Friday, April 16, at the home of Queen City Council, No. 44, Polk Street.

Bills To Tighten Laws On Spying Being Drafted

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP) — Bills to tighten laws covering spying and alien registration were reported on Capitol Hill today to be under preparation at the Justice Department.

A bill sent to Congress last week by Assistant Attorney General Peyton Ford may be only the first of a series, one congressman said. It would require aliens to register with the Justice Department annually.

An Un-American Activities Subcommittee headed by Rep. Nixon (R-Calif.) hopes to produce this week a bill to curb Communists. Registration is one approach that has been suggested. Rep. Vail (R-Ill.) likes the idea of outlawing the Communist Party. But Rep. Hebert (D-La.) said he thinks the courts might rule this unconstitutional.

British, German Officials Reticent About Blasts

UELZEN, Germany, April 4. (AP)—British Army and German police officials remained reticent today about six mysterious explosions reported along the British-Soviet demarcation line in the Lower Saxony district of Uelzen.

German police headquarters said for the past three days they found exploded and non-exploded charges buried at different places near the zonal frontier woods.

British Army artillery experts said some of the splinters were from old land mines.

When that happens, you put on the white duck pants, squat on the sands at Malibu and wait for a case of gin to float in."

●—●—●

"That's an old beef," I said, "and I generally hear it from guys who are drawing down three G's a week. I meet plenty of Hollywood people here in New York and they don't seem fuzzy."

"You meet them for ten minutes," said the director. "You don't have to work with them. You know Larry McCoy?"

"You mean the big-shot producer?" I said.

"The same," said the director. "Not long ago he asked me to do a picture for him. And I was plenty worried when I took on the assignment. When Larry is bright, he's awfully bright, but there are times when his mind gets to dialing wrong numbers.

"The scrift called for a girl who combined acting know-how and marquee strength — someone who looked like Jennifer Jones and could emote like Barbara Bel Geddes. Not an easy order. The day after I started lining up a cast, McCoy waltzed a blonde magoo into my office. You know the type—tall, chesty and a lot of grapefruit-colored hair.

"Here's your leading lady," he told me.

"That evening at Romanoff's I spotted McCoy in a booth with the blonde. Midnight he was on the floor dancing with her at Ciro's. Next morning I told Larry to get himself another boy. No picture with my name on it was going to be messed up because the producer felt like playing footsie. The Fatty Arbuckle days were over.

"Larry listened, closed the door and sat down. After staring at my ash tray for a full minute, he said, 'Let me level with you. I met this dame at a party a few nights ago, and she knocked me witless. I haven't slept four hours in the last four days. Unless she gets this part, baby isn't going to make with the kisses. And without those kisses, I might as well chuck myself out the window. I've got it that bad.'

●—●—●

"I told Larry I was sorry, but I wasn't fouling up my career to make Kinsey happy. 'At least shoot a test of her,' McCoy pleaded.

"That much I couldn't refuse, seeing as how the man was paying me a mighty fine dollar. I sent for the casting director and asked him to get me some dope on the newcomer.

"'Newcomer your Aunt Sarah,' said the casting man. 'This babe has been around Hollywood for years. I can show you a dozen pictures in which she played bit parts.'

"'How come McCoy doesn't know her work then?' I asked.

"'Search me,' said the casting director, unless it's the whisky—the five hundred barrels that Larry has lapped up in the past ten years. The laugh is he used to run around with this girl. It only lasted a week, but it was quite a thing.'

"'McCoy told me he first met this girl a few days ago,' I said.

"'I think I know the answer to that one,' said the casting man. When Larry was stuck on her, she was a brunette and a bit on the plump side. She went back to New York a couple of years ago, slimmed down and decided to take another crack at Hollywood as a blonde.'

"I warned the casting director to keep his theories to himself. But I knew he was right. Larry's punchy brain hadn't recognized his seven-day sweetie in her blonde get-up, but his emotions had. Blonde or brunette, the girl could still give him the jim-jams. The old zing was still there.

"What to do? Well, after thinking about it a while, I decided to give it to McCoy straight."

"How did the producer take it?" I asked.

"Like a geprieve from the governor," said my friend. "He grinned, mumbled something about being a monkey's uncle, and never gave her a thought after that."

Administration Wants War, Taylor Declares

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., April 4 (AP)—Sen. Glen H. Taylor (D-Idaho) said today that "the Democratic administration would like to get a war started by November to help re-elect President Truman."

The candidate for Vice President on the third party ticket of Henry A. Wallace made the accusation at a news conference before speaking at the organizing convention of the Progressive Party of West Virginia.

"Our government has fallen into the hands of a gang," he told newsmen. "Gang is a good name for them because that's what they called Goering and Goebles and that bunch."

In his speech to the convention, the Senator called for the election of Wallace as "the only sure means" of stopping what he said was the drive to militarize and regiment the country.

Bills To Tighten Laws On Spying Being Drafted

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP) — Bills to tighten laws covering spying and alien registration were reported on Capitol Hill today to be under preparation at the Justice Department.

An Un-American Activities Subcommittee headed by Rep. Nixon (R-Calif.) hopes to produce this week a bill to curb Communists. Registration is one approach that has been suggested. Rep. Vail (R-Ill.) likes the idea of outlawing the Communist Party. But Rep. Hebert (D-La.) said he thinks the courts might rule this unconstitutional.

Bill Brehany Wins Sportsmanship Award

Johnny Lujack Stresses High Average At N D

'Moose' Krause Brings Message From Leahy

Athletics teaches clear thinking and brings out the competitive spirit in a young man, Johnny Lujack, of Connellsville, Pa., Notre Dame's All-American quarterback of 1946 and 1947, told his audience of 700 persons at the ninth annual Sportsmanship Award banquet of the K. of C. last night at St. Mary's hall.

Lujack, who won the Associated Press Poll, the Washington Touchdown Club Trophy and the Heisman Trophy last year after being adjudged the outstanding college football player in the nation, and signed a 4-year contract with the Chicago Bears of the National Football League, said that there are three things that are important in the life of an athlete. He listed them in the following order:

1. Clean living. 2. Eliminate smoking and drinking and 3. Studies.

Must Attain 77 Average

Mr. Quarterback pointed out that at Notre Dame there is no favoritism shown to athletes as many persons are led to believe. "Athletes must maintain a 77 average while other students are required to maintain a 70 average," he declared.

The speaker said that "Slip" Madigan, St. Mary's Gaels' coach referred to Zigmont "Ziggy" Czarboski, Notre Dame tackle, as the "Bob Hope of football" and added that the title was well deserved. Johnny told a story about Coach Frank Leahy being nervous before the Southern California game and when he informed "Ziggy" that his opponent was one of the biggest and fastest men on the Trojans' squad, Czarboski remarked: "I'll hit him once or twice and he'll be just as dumb as I am."

Lujack stressed that the 1947 Notre Dame team was the first undefeated and untied eleven turned out by the university at South Bend since 1930.

He told of Michigan beating Southern Cal. worse than Notre Dame and then added a bit of humor by relating that a Michigan man was found in a hotel lobby muttering to himself: "1902, 49-0; 1948-49-0. Just think of it, 46 years and not a bit of improvement." Johnny added: "Those Michigan people are never satisfied."

"Notre Dame won the national football championship in 1947 and not on New Year's Day in 1948," Lujack emphasized. The question of which team would have won had Notre Dame played Michigan will be argued for many years to come, Mr. Quarterback stated.

Lujack told of the story he read in the paper which stated he refused a $75,000 movie contract and was holding out for $100,000. "Just imagine," Johnny declared, "holding out for $100,000 and I didn't have a nickel to buy a bag of popcorn."

Warns Of Easy Money

He sounded a warning to boys about the easy money floating around nowadays and the subsidizing being practiced by many schools. "When schools offer boys money they are trying to cover up some kind of weakness in that institution," he concluded.

Edward "Moose" Krause, assistant athletic director and head basketball coach at Notre Dame, told of the days when Lujack played on the "hamburger" team at South Bend, and attributed the success of Notre Dame teams to the spirit exemplified by the players on all teams. His advice to young men was to "go to a university where you can get a good education and play football or basketball for the fun of it.

He said he was reading the script prepared by Coach Leahy when he said "Notre Dame will not have a good team next year and it's going to be a tough job to fill Lujack's No. 12 shoes." Krause advised the alumni not to bet on the opener between Notre Dame and Purdue because the Boilermakers will have the best team in the Big Nine in 1948. One of the candidates for Lujack's shoes next fall is Bobby Williams, former Cumberlander, who now lives in Baltimore. Williams' father, however, was present and he was introduced.

Krause said that the N. D. basketball team won 17 and lost 7 games during the past season and prospects look good for next season with the return of Vince Boryla.

Praises Tommy Mont

Localizing his talk, the N. D. mentor recalled that he saw LaSalle play in the National Catholic Tournament at Chicago in 1928 and 1929 and praised Tommy Mont, who had played with the College All-Stars eleven against the pros in Chicago last year.

The football used in the Navy-Notre Dame game and autographed by Notre Dame players was won by Mickey Clark, quarterback of the LaSalle High School team.

Moving pictures of the Notre Dame-NYU basketball game and Football Highlights of 1947 were shown at the close of the program.

Forty women of St. Mary's prepared the meal and the kitchen was in charge of Mrs. George Crass. Sixty girls from St. Mary's served the meal under the direction of Mrs. Goldie Doddrill.

The invocation was given by Father Ervan Maisel, O.F.M., Cap., while benediction was pronounced by the Very Rev. Lawrence J. Kilkenny. Music was provided on the solovox by "Peck" Mills and Donald Easton gave two trumpet numbers "Sugar Blues" and "Beg Your Pardon."

Starkey, Carter Top Amvets' Fight Card

Goss And Choby Land Semi-Final Bout At Armory

Five Keystate Boxers On Tonight's Program

Randall "Skeets" Starkey, classy local welterweight, is scheduled to swap punches with Henry Carter of the Keystate Athletic Club of Central City, Pa., in the feature bout of the Amvets amateur boxing show tonight at the State Armory.

It will be Starkey's 27th ring engagement. He has won 18 out of 26 amateur matches.

Carter is among five boxers being brought here by Manager Pete Yelovich of the Keystate A.C.

Choby To Meet Goss

Johnny Choby, Central City bantamweight, will oppose Bobby Goss, local bantamweight star, in the three-round semi-final.

Other bouts on the card, the 16th amateur show to be held here this season, include:

Melvin Washington, Royale A.C., vs. Al Matty, Keystate A.C., welterweights.

Bob Canwich, Keystate A.C., vs. Bill Frazier, Diamond A.C., middleweights.

"Tojo" Wade, Keystate A.C., vs. Bill Mann, Diamond A.C., middleweights.

Earl Smith, Amvets, vs. "Sonny" Lafferty, St. Mary's A.C., bantamweights.

Other boxers seeking bouts in tonight's show include Ben Banks and Jim Folk of Grantsille; Jimmy Quinn, Ray Stott and Roy Richardson, Century A. C., Frostburg; Dick Saylor, Amvets, and Jimmie Deetz, Russell Bean and Duke Davis of the Diamond A. C.

"Tojo" Wade will be making his second appearance here. He lost a decision to Homer Boone in St. Mary's A. C. show on February 2. Choby lost two close decisions to "Sonny" Lafferty and Earl Smith in previous matches here.

Carter, Canwich and Matty will be fighting in Cumberland for the first time.

The Central City team is a last minute substitute for the Eastern Police Boys' Club team of Baltimore which cancelled its appearance here last Friday.

Turns Down Zan Team

Matchmaker Robert V. "Sparky" Chisholm made an effort to bring the Zan A. C. team from Morgantown, W. Va., when Baltimore cancelled but the West Virginians asked "too much of a guarantee" and were turned down. John Zan wired Chisholm last night that it was "too late" to cancel because two of his boys were already in Cumberland and he was planning to send four other boxers here today.

Chisholm stated that Morgantown is definitely off the card even though six boxers are sent here because he had already contracted to bring the Central City mittmen here.

Tonight's card will comprise eight or more bouts. The show will get under way at 8 o'clock.

James E. Kelley, Jr., will referee all bouts. The judges will be Gilbert Becker and Howard "Red" Bush and the timer, John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh.

At the same time, drawings were held for the state legion basketball tournament to be held next Friday and Saturday at Fairmont under the direction of Frank J. Seccuro, the state athletic chairman.

Friday night's first round games will send Parkersburg Post No. 15 against Charles Town Post 71; St. Albans Post 73 against Benwood Post 46; Ridgeley Post 136 against Grant Town Post 157; and Elkins Post 29 against Weston Post 4.

Isaac Walton League Names Leap President

Joint action in the rehabilitation of wild life in the Hyndman, Pa., area will be planned at a meeting of the Hyndman-Londonderry Chapter of the Isaac Walton League and the Wills Creek Rod and Gun Club of Hyndman to be held Monday, April 12, in the May Theater, Hyndman.

Plans are being made at the present for a rabbit feeding refuge to be located near Hyndman. The area will be stocked and planted and fenced to protect it from hunters.

The Isaac Walton League has already embarked upon a food planting program for wildlife in the area. Plans call for the planting of soy beans and grain crops in unused fields or in portions of fields farmers are willing to set aside for wildlife.

Both of the clubs will embark soon on drives to raise funds for additional conservation work.

Several thousand fish have already been distributed in streams of the county this year by the State Game and Fish Commission and some 800 legal size brown and rainbow trout were recently placed in Hyndman area streams through the efforts of the Isaac Walton League, it was reported. A large number of rabbits have already been released in an effort to increase rabbit hunting prospects,

E. J. Leap, Hyndman, was re-elected president of the Isaac Walton League last Tuesday. Other 1948-9 officers will be C. O. Burns, vice president; R. K. Clapper, secretary, and William T. Bateson, treasurer.

Committee heads named at the meeting were E. B. Raley, membership; W. Melvin DeVore, activities committee; R. C. May, wild life rehabilitation, and Lloyd Christner, reforestation chairman.

But the Giants came back in their half of the inning with five runs on as many hits, including a homer by Jack Conway and doubles by Johnny Mize and Walker Cooper off Fred Bradley.

The Elkins school has also scheduled Parsons for two basketball games during the coming season.

Coach Homer Brooks also announced his football schedule for the fall which will open on September 10, when the Panthers meet Rowlesburg at Rowlesburg for their opening game.

Other games will include Masontown, away, on September 17; Kingwood, September 24, at home; Belington, away on October 1; Thomas, at home on October 8; Romney, away on October 15; Elkins, away on November 5; and November 13, the game with Beall High School at Frostburg, Md., is still pending.

The entire varsity team will return next year with the exception of the co-captains, Paul "Dusty" Nestor and Bernard Phillips who will graduate in the spring.

For the past three years Parsons has played the Elkins "B" Team, tying them in 1945 at 0-0; in 1946 they defeated them 25-7; and in 1947 they won by 6-0.

Coach Brooks also awarded Jack Rhoades, varsity member of the football team, a gold football for making a 105 yard run last fall in football, the longest run in the state. Rhoades made the run during the Kingwood-Parsons game.

Regis High Is Winner Of Newport Tourney

NEWPORT, R. I., April 4 (AP) — New York City's Regis High School last night defeated La Salle College High School of Philadelphia 32-19 to capture the 11th annual Eastern States Catholic Invitational Basketball Tournament.

The victory reversed the decision of the past two seasons when La Salle beat Regis for the title.

The Rooney Twins, Gerald and John, each scored eight points to pace Regis to triumph.

La Salle Academy of New York City took third place in the tournament by defeating St. John's Military Academy of Washington, D. C., 50-33. La Salle's Tim O'Connell led the scorers with 20 points.

Graziano-Horne Bout At Capital Will Draw 8,000

Ten Round Non-Title Go Set For Tonight

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP) — Middleweight champion Rocky Graziano who hasn't fought a lick in ten months, returns to the ring tomorrow night to meet Sonny Horne in a ten-round, non-title bout.

Here's the big question that the fight is expected to answer:

Has Graziano, a ferocious puncher from New York's East Side, become rusty during his long absence?

If he has, Horne has a good chance to spring a grade-A upset.

For, although the Valley Stream, L. I., fighter lost to Graziano the last time they tangled, the verdict was close—and promptly disputed.

It was two years ago in Madison Square Garden, with 18,907 fans on hand.

When Graziano was declared winner, the booing was so intense the announcer couldn't disclose the identity of the principals in the six-round following bout.

Some local statisticians have figured that the busybody Horne has fought 272 rounds in the past couple of years. During the same period Graziano has fought only 20.

Furthermore, Graziano's showing here hasn't been impressive. True, he has cuffed his sparring partners around considerably, but he also has missed plenty of punches by an embarrassingly wide margin.

This hasn't worried his backers a bit. They point out that Graziano needs only on punch to win, so what does it matter if he looks like a bum for a few rounds before he connects?

The long layoff wasn't Graziano's idea, of course.

He first was barred in New York for failing to report a bribe.

And then he was barred in Illinois because he went A.W.O.L. five days after he joined the army.

He now is barred in 15 states, so finding suitable work has become quite a problem.

The bout is expected to draw 8,000 fans, or a capacity crowd, to Uline's Arena.

Graziano, in an effort to show what a good boy he has become, has decided to turn his entire purse over to charity.

Ridgeley High Athlete Given Wrist Watch

Seven Others Honored; 700 Attend Banquet

William Brehany, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Brehany of Ridgeley, was announced as the winner of the Knights of Columbus Sportsmanship Award, at the ninth annual banquet of Cumberland Council No. 586, last night at St. Mary's Catholic Church basement, Oldtown Road.

Seven hundred persons, the largest gathering to attend an event of this kind in Cumberland, were present when Ross W. Prysock, of the Cumberland Evening and Sunday Times, and chairman of the Sportsmanship Award Committee, stepped to the microphone of the public address system and announced the winner.

Lujack Presents Watch

Brehany, stellar guard of Ridgeley High School's basketball team, who won the Schwarzenbach Trophy for football last fall, was presented a gold wrist watch by Johnny Lujack, two-time All-American quarterback of Notre Dame University, one of the guest speakers on the gala occasion.

In presenting the prize to the winner, Lujack remarked: "Wish I could win a watch." The outstanding college football player in the nation in 1947 congratulated Brehany and while shaking the latter's hand said: "I know you are deserving of it.

Brehany was so overcome with emotion when he attempted to make an acceptance speech all he could get out was "I don't know what to say."

Bill, incidentally, is the first Ridgeley player to receive the award. The West Virginia School entered the picture along with the three Cumberland schools last year.

Seven other nominees for the prize, namely, Don Lilya and James Lease, Allegany; Milford Dean and Gary Moler, Fort Hill; James Collins and Bob Murray, LaSalle, and Joe Moss, Ridgeley, were presented miniature gold basketballs by Lujack.

Past Winners Introduced

Jack Craddock, manager of radio station WMCK, McKeesport, Pa., who acted as toastmaster, introduced six of the eight past winners who were present. They were Thomas Mont, Allegany, 1940; Francis Shaffer, LaSalle, 1941; Paul Whitford, Fort Hill, 1942; Robert Stakem, LaSalle, 1943; Ed Gunning, LaSalle, 1945 and Milford Dean, Fort Hill, 1947.

The toastmaster also read letters from Donald L. Whiteman, Fort Hill, 1944 winner, and James Radcliffe, Allegany, 1946 winner, who expressed their regrets on not being able to attend on account of scholastic obligations.

The Award Chairman read a letter in which the committee recommended that a certificate or letter be issued this year to Milford Dean, 1947 winner, inasmuch as the latter had been twice nominated for the award. The committee suggested that in the future a certificate of honor be issued to any one who should be considered eligible for the second time.

Telegrams were received from Hugh Devore, St. Bonaventure College coach, and Terry Brennan, Notre Dame backfield star, in which they expressed their well wishes for the success of the annual event. DeVore and Brennan spoke at previous K. of C. banquets here.

Condon Lauds Co-Chairmen

In his introductory talk, James Condon, grand knight of the local council, who presided, said that the annual affair was held to pay tribute to the sportsmanship shown by those nominated and in the memory of a man in whose honor the award was founded—Francis J. "Jute" McMullen, who died February 15, 1940. Condon lauded James Browning and Paul Nose, co-chairmen of the banquet committee, and J. Suter Kegg, of the Times, for their part in helping make the program a success.

After being introduced, Toastmaster Jack Craddock recalled that it was the first time he had seen Condon since the latter was "lost" at a Pitt-Minnesota football game they had attended in 1933. "I don't know what happened to Jim but for his information "Pug" Lund won that game for Minnesota," Craddock laughlingly remarked.

Brief remarks were made by Coach Walter L. Bowers of Allegany; Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh of Fort Hill; Coach John J. Long of LaSalle and Coach Jesse Riggleman of Ridgeley. Each speaker congratulated the winner and other boys who were nominated.

Bill Brehany Wins Sportsmanship Award

Johnny Lujack Stresses High Average At N D

'Moose' Krause Brings Message From Leahy

Athletics teaches clear thinking and brings out the competitive spirit in a young man, Johnny Lujack, of Connellsville, Pa., Notre Dame's All-American quarterback of 1946 and 1947, told his audience of 700 persons at the ninth annual Sportsmanship Award banquet of the K. of C. last night at St. Mary's hall.

Lujack, who won the Associated Press Poll, the Washington Touchdown Club Trophy and the Heisman Trophy last year after being adjudged the outstanding college football player in the nation, and signed a 4-year contract with the Chicago Bears of the National Football League, said that there are three things that are important in the life of an athlete. He listed them in the following order:

1. Clean living. 2. Eliminate smoking and drinking and 3. Studies.

Must Attain 77 Average

Mr. Quarterback pointed out that at Notre Dame there is no favoritism shown to athletes as many persons are led to believe. "Athletes must maintain a 77 average while other students are required to maintain a 70 average," he declared.

The speaker said that "Slip" Madigan, St. Mary's Gaels' coach referred to Zigmont "Ziggy" Czarboski, Notre Dame tackle, as the "Bob Hope of football" and added that the title was well deserved. Johnny told a story about Coach Frank Leahy being nervous before the Southern California game and when he informed "Ziggy" that his opponent was one of the biggest and fastest men on the Trojans' squad, Czarboski remarked: "I'll hit him once or twice and he'll be just as dumb as I am."

Lujack stressed that the 1947 Notre Dame team was the first undefeated and untied eleven turned out by the university at South Bend since 1930.

He told of Michigan beating Southern Cal. worse than Notre Dame and then added a bit of humor by relating that a Michigan man was found in a hotel lobby muttering to himself: "1902, 49-0; 1948-49-0. Just think of it, 46 years and not a bit of improvement." Johnny added: "Those Michigan people are never satisfied."

"Notre Dame won the national football championship in 1947 and not on New Year's Day in 1948," Lujack emphasized. The question of which team would have won had Notre Dame played Michigan will be argued for many years to come, Mr. Quarterback stated.

Lujack told of the story he read in the paper which stated he refused a $75,000 movie contract and was holding out for $100,000. "Just imagine," Johnny declared, "holding out for $100,000 and I didn't have a nickel to buy a bag of popcorn."

Warns Of Easy Money

He sounded a warning to boys about the easy money floating around nowadays and the subsidizing being practiced by many schools. "When schools offer boys money they are trying to cover up some kind of weakness in that institution," he concluded.

Edward "Moose" Krause, assistant athletic director and head basketball coach at Notre Dame, told of the days when Lujack played on the "hamburger" team at South Bend, and attributed the success of Notre Dame teams to the spirit exemplified by the players on all teams. His advice to young men was to "go to a university where you can get a good education and play football or basketball for the fun of it.

He said he was reading the script prepared by Coach Leahy when he said "Notre Dame will not have a good team next year and it's going to be a tough job to fill Lujack's No. 12 shoes." Krause advised the alumni not to bet on the opener between Notre Dame and Purdue because the Boilermakers will have the best team in the Big Nine in 1948. One of the candidates for Lujack's shoes next fall is Bobby Williams, former Cumberlander, who now lives in Baltimore. Williams' father, however, was present and he was introduced.

Krause said that the N. D. basketball team won 17 and lost 7 games during the past season and prospects look good for next season with the return of Vince Boryla.

Praises Tommy Mont

Localizing his talk, the N. D. mentor recalled that he saw LaSalle play in the National Catholic Tournament at Chicago in 1928 and 1929 and praised Tommy Mont, who had played with the College All-Stars eleven against the pros in Chicago last year.

The football used in the Navy-Notre Dame game and autographed by Notre Dame players was won by Mickey Clark, quarterback of the LaSalle High School team.

Moving pictures of the Notre Dame-NYU basketball game and Football Highlights of 1947 were shown at the close of the program.

Forty women of St. Mary's prepared the meal and the kitchen was in charge of Mrs. George Crass. Sixty girls from St. Mary's served the meal under the direction of Mrs. Goldie Doddrill.

The invocation was given by Father Ervan Maisel, O.F.M., Cap., while benediction was pronounced by the Very Rev. Lawrence J. Kilkenny. Music was provided on the solovox by "Peck" Mills and Donald Easton gave two trumpet numbers "Sugar Blues" and "Beg Your Pardon."

Starkey, Carter Top Amvets' Fight Card

Goss And Choby Land Semi-Final Bout At Armory

Five Keystate Boxers On Tonight's Program

Randall "Skeets" Starkey, classy local welterweight, is scheduled to swap punches with Henry Carter of the Keystate Athletic Club of Central City, Pa., in the feature bout of the Amvets amateur boxing show tonight at the State Armory.

It will be Starkey's 27th ring engagement. He has won 18 out of 26 amateur matches.

Carter is among five boxers being brought here by Manager Pete Yelovich of the Keystate A.C.

Choby To Meet Goss

Johnny Choby, Central City bantamweight, will oppose Bobby Goss, local bantamweight star, in the three-round semi-final.

Other bouts on the card, the 16th amateur show to be held here this season, include:

Melvin Washington, Royale A.C., vs. Al Matty, Keystate A.C., welterweights.

Bob Canwich, Keystate A.C., vs. Bill Frazier, Diamond A.C., middleweights.

"Tojo" Wade, Keystate A.C., vs. Bill Mann, Diamond A.C., middleweights.

Earl Smith, Amvets, vs. "Sonny" Lafferty, St. Mary's A.C., bantamweights.

Other boxers seeking bouts in tonight's show include Ben Banks and Jim Folk of Grantsille; Jimmy Quinn, Ray Stott and Roy Richardson, Century A. C., Frostburg; Dick Saylor, Amvets, and Jimmie Deetz, Russell Bean and Duke Davis of the Diamond A. C.

"Tojo" Wade will be making his second appearance here. He lost a decision to Homer Boone in St. Mary's A. C. show on February 2. Choby lost two close decisions to "Sonny" Lafferty and Earl Smith in previous matches here.

Carter, Canwich and Matty will be fighting in Cumberland for the first time.

The Central City team is a last minute substitute for the Eastern Police Boys' Club team of Baltimore which cancelled its appearance here last Friday.

Turns Down Zan Team

Matchmaker Robert V. "Sparky" Chisholm made an effort to bring the Zan A. C. team from Morgantown, W. Va., when Baltimore cancelled but the West Virginians asked "too much of a guarantee" and were turned down. John Zan wired Chisholm last night that it was "too late" to cancel because two of his boys were already in Cumberland and he was planning to send four other boxers here today.

Chisholm stated that Morgantown is definitely off the card even though six boxers are sent here because he had already contracted to bring the Central City mittmen here.

Tonight's card will comprise eight or more bouts. The show will get under way at 8 o'clock.

James E. Kelley, Jr., will referee all bouts. The judges will be Gilbert Becker and Howard "Red" Bush and the timer, John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh.

WINNER ACCEPTS AWARD-- William "Bill" Brehany, guard of the Ridgeley High School Blackhawks, winner of the annual Cumberland Knights of Columbus Sportsmanship Award, is shown being presented a gold wrist watch by Johnny Lujack, All-American quarterback of Notre Dame University, at the ninth annual banquet last night at St. Mary's Catholic Church basement. Seven other nominees for the award received miniature gold basketballs. Those shown in the above photo, left to right, are: Ed "Moose" Krause, assistant athletic director and varsity basketball coach at Notre Dame, Brehany and Lujack with James Condon, grand knight of Cumberland Council, in the background. Lujack and Krause were guest speakers at the banquet which attracted 700 persons.

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP) — Middleweight champion Rocky Graziano who hasn't fought a lick in ten months, returns to the ring tomorrow night to meet Sonny Horne in a ten-round, non-title bout.

Red Sox, Nats, Reds, Pirates, Giants Win

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 4 (AP) — Stan Musial's 427-foot home run over the centerfield screen capped a three-run ninth inning rally today to give the St. Louis Cardinals an 8-7 victory over the New York Yankees.

It was the Cardinals' fifth win over the world champions against four defeats in their spring exhibition series.

The Yankees collected 10 of their 14 hits and all their runs in the first four innings off Murry Dickson, who throttled them with a no-hitter last Wednesday.

The Cards rallied after spotting the Yankees seven runs and a 7-3 lead through the seventh.

Al Schoendienst started the winning rally with a single with one away. He scored on Dusak's triple. Dusak came home in front of Musial after the latter's long homer. Score:

Meanwhile, another member of the local rent advisory board has submitted his resignation. He is William E. McDonald who resigned on the heels of Daniel F. McMullen, who vacated his job on Friday.

In explaining the rent act, Heath said that under the new law, rent controls are continuing in effect through March 31, 1949. It makes no automatic change in rent ceilings and for most tenants their maximum rents under the law are the same as those which were in effect on June 30, 1947, with the following exceptions:

Where a landlord and tenant had voluntarily entered into a written lease increasing the rent up to 15 per cent; where the local rent office had issued an individual adjustment order changing the rent or where the housing expediter had approved a general increase.

Heath Announces Details Of Housing Rent Act

Area Rent Director Walter R. Heath has announced details of the Housing Rent Act of 1948, which became effective April 1.

Meanwhile, another member of the local rent advisory board has submitted his resignation. He is William E. McDonald who resigned on the heels of Daniel F. McMullen, who vacated his job on Friday.

In explaining the rent act, Heath said that under the new law, rent controls are continuing in effect through March 31, 1949. It makes no automatic change in rent ceilings and for most tenants their maximum rents under the law are the same as those which were in effect on June 30, 1947, with the following exceptions:

Where a landlord and tenant had voluntarily entered into a written lease increasing the rent up to 15 per cent; where the local rent office had issued an individual adjustment order changing the rent or where the housing expediter had approved a general increase.

Army Day Tribute By Paul Whiteman On Air Tonight

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, April 4.—As a tribute to Army Day, the Paul Whiteman show of ABC is being extended to an hour at 9 o'clock Monday night. Some special guests are being added, to include Milton Berle and Jane Froman, Vic Damone and others. The speaker is Gen. Omar Bradley.

Of two of the day's specials, there is Universal Notre Dame night on MBS at 10:30 and a Boys Club recorded program on ABC at 10:45. The Notre Dame broadcast, from Philadelphia, will include Father John J. Cavanaugh, president of Notre Dame. In the Boys club program will be Bing Crosby and his four sons as well as J. Edgar Hoover.

The CBS School of the Air at 5 has listed some overseas pickups in a "Freedom from Want" program. Food will be the principal item considered.

The Hope College Glee Club of Holland, Mich., is to have a 40-voice girls' chorus on MBS at 4:45 for 15 minutes.

Helen Hayes, playing for the NBC Cavalcade of America drama at 8 is billed for "Woman of Steel," a story of the early days in the steel industry in Pennsylvania.

More drama: CBS 9 Radio Theater Ida Lupino and Dana Andrews in "Daisy Kenyon."

CBS 10:30 Screen Guild Players Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Taylor in One Way Passage.

Mark Warnow's Soundoff, which had to vacate Sunday afternoons on ABC because of a sponsor-program rearrangement, gets the comfortable time of 8:30 on Monday nights.

A Bit Of Everything

"Hollywood Open House," a transcribed syndicated program, is on all counts rather difficult to explain. In the first place it hasn't a great deal to do with Hollywood. It is produced and transcribed in New York at a C. B. S. theatre. In the second place, it is heard in New York over WNBC, which announces with superb disregard for the facts that it was "transcribed earlier specifically for presentation over WNBC at this time." The program is heard over 203 other stations at a variety of times. In the third place, you never know from week to week whom you will run into on this Hollywood house party which takes place in New York at C.B.S. for broadcast over an N.B.C. station.

John Crosby

"Hollywood House Party" is a variety program on which you may hear almost any combination of acts short of preforming seals. The only steady contributors are Jim Ameche, brother of Don Ameche (who sounds just like him), and Ray Bloch's orchestra, a terribly noisy aggregation. Jim introduces, Ray accompanies. The rest of the show is provided by the guests, who may be—depending on what week you're listening—Jack Benny, Bert Lahr, Zero Mostel, Roddy McDowell, Dick Powell, Hildegarde, Marlene Dietrich, Basil Rathbone, Freddie Bartholomew, Martha Scott, Roland Young, Milton Berle, Lucille Ball, Jack Pearl or a bunch of people not nearly so well known.

Naturally with such diverse talents no two of these programs sound much alike. Here is a summary of one of them which I don't claim as typical. Zero Mostel delivered one of his comic monologues, and a very good one, on the relationship of the brain with the rest of the organism. (That's as close as I can come to describing it.) Freddie Bartholomew, the former child actor, then plunged into a tragic scene from David Copperfield. Mr. Bartholomew, as I recall, played the child David in the movie years ago and it's nice to see he has graduated to the adult role. It's a difficult bit under any circumstances and particularly difficult following one of the zaniest comedians in the business. This program was rounded out by Monica Lewis, a very gentle singer, complaining of the heartbreak caused her by the man she loved. As I remarked earlier, this is a variety show.

Another "Hollywood Open House" consisted almost entirely of Bert Lahr's engaging nonsense. "Eight goes into fifty—no, it doesn't. I must have missed a hypotenuse. According to statistics, people would be better off if they'd never been born but that seldom happens to people." Still another was composed largely of an elfin drama about the ghost of a man who had been murdered hundreds of years earlier presumably for whimsy.

As a matter of fact, it's pretty good variety, though I'm not sure it's pretty good radio. The only constant ingredient in "Hollywood Open House" is surprise.

Two small events of elusive significance: 1. The Ogden Nash influence creeping into singing commercials has produced:

"Call for Cuticura.

"It's fragrant. It's purah."

2. A juvenile quiz and information program called "Mind Your Manners" has replaced "Coffee with Congress" at 9:30 a. m. E.S.T. Saturdays.

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness extended to us during the illness and following the death of our beloved mother, Sophia J. Senn. We also wish to thank Rev. Jesse W. Advice To The Lovelorn

Most Women Who Feel They Can't Trust Husbands Torture Themselves

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Just what it is that makes women so afraid that the men who marry them are still hankering after girls in whom they were once interested, it would be hard to say.

Most of the time, such wives are torturing themselves needlessly. But once in a while some particular set of circumstances of this kind may seem to offer some real cause for worry.

The situation about which one young wife writes me may fall into this group.

Her story is that when she met the man who became her husband, he had only a month before broken his engagement to another girl. After going with him for a year, she married him.

That was two and a half years ago. Through all of that time they have been very happy together until recently when, as she puts it, "the shock came."

The shock was to discover that her husband had been seen on the street with the girl who was his former fiancee. Because some intimate friends of theirs had seen him with the girl, and he apparently expected them to report on what they had seen, the husband broke the news first to his wife that he had taken the girl out.

"He said he had had this girl on his mind ever since we have been married, and that he just had to take her out to find out if he still cared for her. He told me that having taken her out, he has found out that he does not care for her any more. But deep down inside I can't seem to trust him."

The reason her faith has been so shaken is not only because of this one occasion when she knows he was out with the girl, but also because she learned that he had met the girl at his mother's house a week before taking her out. Now she wonders if he has been associating with her more than she knows.

I think this wife would be smart to realize that her present feeling of insecurity about her husband is just as likely to be due to the sudden realization that she has to adjust herself to a little different conception of him than she had before as it is to any real need for apprehension about him. If she will be content to recognize this, and not permit herself to put undue emphasis on the incident, the chances are the whole thing will blow over and be forgotten. Perhaps it wasn't quite loyal of her husband to see this girl without his wife's knowledge, but on the other hand, was it actually so important?

To this question there are three possible answers that the wife might make: She can keep telling herself that it is a serious matter, and so encourage her suspicions to grow bigger; she can say, as this wife is no doubt doing, that the reason she worries is because she doesn't know whether it is serious or not; or she can decide that the whole thing isn't worth bothering about and make up her mind to forget it. This last is what I hope she will do.

NOTICE OF AUDIT

Jennie S. A. Inskeep, et al. vs. Ray M. Clark, et al. No. 20127 Equity in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, Cumberland, Maryland, April 1st, 1948.

This is to give notice that an audit filed in the above entitled cause, distributing the funds in the hands of Earl E. Manges, Trustee, will be ready for ratification on the 17th day of April, 1948, unless cause to the contrary be shown.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Delsie D. MacMillan, vs. Archibald MacMillan, No. 20593 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to secure the passage of a decree divorcing the Complainant A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the absentee defendant, Archibald MacMillan.

The Bill of Complaint states, that the couple were married on February 27, 1928 and lived together until on or about July 15, 1945, at which time the Defendant abandoned and deserted the Complainant and that they have not lived or cohabited together since July of 1945. That six minor children were born of this marriage, all of them now residing with the Complainant in Lonaconing, Maryland. The Bill further states that the Complainant has been a resident of Allegany County for more than two years prior to the filing of this suit, but that the Defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland and when last heard of was proceeding for Detroit, Michigan.

It is thereupon this 27th day of March, 1948, ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, sitting in Equity, that a copy of this Order be inserted in one of the daily newspapers published in this County once each week for four successive weeks before the 29th day of April, 1948, giving notification to the absentee Defendant, Archibald MacMillan, of the object and substance of this Bill of Complaint, and warning him to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 15th day of May, 1948, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Swiss Still Short Of Wheat Flour

BERN, Switzerland—(AP)—Switzerland may have to retain bread rationing indefinitely, in view of the world wheat situation, according to the Swiss Department of Agriculture.

Switzerland imports 400,000 tons of wheat per year, largely from the United States. Negotiations are now in progress for large shipments from Australia, but Swiss economic experts anticipate even greater difficulty in meeting their requirements for 1948-9 than were encountered during the current season.

Only bread, flour and oil now remain rationed in Switzerland.

2,400 German Youths Get Swiss Farm Jobs

BERN. (AP)—More than 2,400 German students from the British zone, including nearly 1,000 girls, are scheduled to come to Switzerland this summer to help with the harvest.

The students, all volunteers, will work on farms for three weeks for the same wages paid to Swiss workers, and will be allowed to spend a fourth week vacationing at a Swiss resort.

A similar scheme from the British zone was in operation last year, but only 300 students were permitted to participate.

Banking Interlude

DELHI, India — (AP) — A youth strolled into a bank here, walking down a line of clerks. He struck each smartly on the head with a handkerchief filled with rocks. "You've got all the money. I've got none," the boy told startled bankers who handed him over to the police.

If the current Michael Redgrave-Flora Robson "Macbeth" isn't the best production of Shakespeare's tragedy this town has seen, it will do until a better one comes along, for it is pretty magnificent from any angle you take it, and we're not forgetting the thrilling Maurice Evans—Judith Anderson performances either. . . Boston censors using their shears on "Hold It." . . . Producer Max Gordon planning a musical version of "My Sister Eileen" next season, if that's news. . . . The Theatre Guild contributed $11,000 toward the endowment of the new Theresa Terry Helburn Chair of Drama at Bryn Mawr College. . . . At the fifth anniversary party of "Oklahoma!" Terry showed up in a patriotic ensemble—red dress, white makeup and blue (and decidedly blue) hair.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Most Women Who Feel They Can't Trust Husbands Torture Themselves

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Just what it is that makes women so afraid that the men who marry them are still hankering after girls in whom they were once interested, it would be hard to say.

Most of the time, such wives are torturing themselves needlessly. But once in a while some particular set of circumstances of this kind may seem to offer some real cause for worry.

The situation about which one young wife writes me may fall into this group.

Her story is that when she met the man who became her husband, he had only a month before broken his engagement to another girl. After going with him for a year, she married him.

That was two and a half years ago. Through all of that time they have been very happy together until recently when, as she puts it, "the shock came."

The shock was to discover that her husband had been seen on the street with the girl who was his former fiancee. Because some intimate friends of theirs had seen him with the girl, and he apparently expected them to report on what they had seen, the husband broke the news first to his wife that he had taken the girl out.

"He said he had had this girl on his mind ever since we have been married, and that he just had to take her out to find out if he still cared for her. He told me that having taken her out, he has found out that he does not care for her any more. But deep down inside I can't seem to trust him."

The reason her faith has been so shaken is not only because of this one occasion when she knows he was out with the girl, but also because she learned that he had met the girl at his mother's house a week before taking her out. Now she wonders if he has been associating with her more than she knows.

I think this wife would be smart to realize that her present feeling of insecurity about her husband is just as likely to be due to the sudden realization that she has to adjust herself to a little different conception of him than she had before as it is to any real need for apprehension about him. If she will be content to recognize this, and not permit herself to put undue emphasis on the incident, the chances are the whole thing will blow over and be forgotten. Perhaps it wasn't quite loyal of her husband to see this girl without his wife's knowledge, but on the other hand, was it actually so important?

To this question there are three possible answers that the wife might make: She can keep telling herself that it is a serious matter, and so encourage her suspicions to grow bigger; she can say, as this wife is no doubt doing, that the reason she worries is because she doesn't know whether it is serious or not; or she can decide that the whole thing isn't worth bothering about and make up her mind to forget it. This last is what I hope she will do.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Delsie D. MacMillan, vs. Archibald MacMillan, No. 20593 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to secure the passage of a decree divorcing the Complainant A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the absentee defendant, Archibald MacMillan.

The Bill of Complaint states, that the couple were married on February 27, 1928 and lived together until on or about July 15, 1945, at which time the Defendant abandoned and deserted the Complainant and that they have not lived or cohabited together since July of 1945. That six minor children were born of this marriage, all of them now residing with the Complainant in Lonaconing, Maryland. The Bill further states that the Complainant has been a resident of Allegany County for more than two years prior to the filing of this suit, but that the Defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland and when last heard of was proceeding for Detroit, Michigan.

It is thereupon this 27th day of March, 1948, ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, sitting in Equity, that a copy of this Order be inserted in one of the daily newspapers published in this County once each week for four successive weeks before the 29th day of April, 1948, giving notification, to the absentee Defendant, Archibald MacMillan, of the object and substance of this Bill of Complaint, and warning him to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 15th day of May, 1948, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Swiss Still Short Of Wheat Flour

BERN, Switzerland—(AP)—Switzerland may have to retain bread rationing indefinitely, in view of the world wheat situation, according to the Swiss Department of Agriculture.

Switzerland imports 400,000 tons of wheat per year, largely from the United States. Negotiations are now in progress for large shipments from Australia, but Swiss economic experts anticipate even greater difficulty in meeting their requirements for 1948-9 than were encountered during the current season.

Only bread, flour and oil now remain rationed in Switzerland.

2,400 German Youths Get Swiss Farm Jobs

BERN, (AP)—More than 2,400 German students from the British zone, including nearly 1,000 girls, are scheduled to come to Switzerland this summer to help with the harvest.

The students, all volunteers, will work on farms for three weeks for the same wages paid to Swiss workers, and will be allowed to spend a fourth week vacationing at a Swiss resort.

A similar scheme from the British zone was in operation last year, but only 300 students were permitted to participate.

Tax Action Not Likely To Change Appointive Jobs

Rumors To Contrary Persistent, However

The newly elected Mayor and Council prepared for their first official meeting this morning with indications last night that appointment agreements reached Friday will not be affected by planned legal action in the city tax collection case. However, rumors to the contrary persisted last night.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said no further caucuses were scheduled and councilmen contacted last night said the decisions reached Friday in Mayor Post's office "still stand" as far as they were concerned.

Political observers were speculating over a last-minute change in the city tax collector appointment, after State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris declared "voluminous evidence" in the tax case will be presented to the grand jury.

Mayor Post did disclose that he will make an important statement when the new municipal body meets this morning, but declined to discuss the nature of his statement.

Since Friday when the newly elected body met, it has been assumed that all four political appointments to be made will not receive unanimous votes, and political prognosticators declared the Mayor will not be "entirely pleased" with the persons selected to fill the four vacancies.

The positions to be filled are city solicitor, city tax collector, a Civil Service Commission post and a physician to the Health Board.

While the newly elected commissioners announced agreement on the appointments after Friday morning's half-hour meeting they declined to release the names of appointees prior to this morning.

In addition to the four appointments the newly elected councilmen will be assigned to the departments in which they will serve for the next two years. William Buchholtz will be the only new face on the City Council, but Edgar Reynolds will be returning after several years absence from public life.

The two remaining councilmen are William V. Keegan and William J. Edwards, both of whom were re-elected to office in the general election. Mayor Post will be beginning his third term this morning.

CAUGHT IN THE CENTER--Here's one picture that show's Notre Dame's Johnny Lujack being stopped, this time by over 200 autograph seekers at the ninth annual K. of C. sportsmanship award banquet Sunday night. A popular drawing card wherever he goes, Lujack probably had a writer's cramp after his session with Cumberland's youngsters as well as many oldsters who attend the fete.

Telephone Center To Be Dedicated

The cornerstone of Cumberland's half million dollar telephone central office which is being constructed on the corner of Union and South Centre Streets will be laid at ceremonies planned this afternoon at 1 o'clock.

The service will open with the invocation by Rev. David C. Watson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, and will be followed by an address by A. B. Haneke, Baltimore, vice president and general manager of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City.

Mayor Thomas S. Post will give the response to Haneke's speech for the City of Cumberland.

The prayer of dedication will be offered by Rabbi Jacob Aaronson, of Beth Jacob Congregation here.

Material to be sealed in the cornerstone will include copies of Cumberland newspapers presented by John J. McMullen, president of the Times and Alleganian Company; the Allegany County Telephone Directory, by Mrs. Helen C. Johnson, chief operator of the Cumberland exchange; photographs of architect's drawings of the building, R. E. L. Taylor, of Taylor and Fisher, Baltimore architects, and copies of the Cumberland Telephone History, The Transmitter and the C. and P. Call, by E. H. Bender, plant wire chief.

Tasker G. Lowndes, a director of the company, will receive and place the articles in the cornerstone and seal the opening.

Rev. Alban Hammal, O. F. M. Cap., pastor of SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, will give the benediction.

Howard M. Smith, manager of the Cumberland office, is in charge of arrangements for the ceremony.

Four Persons Arrested On Disorderly Charges

Four persons arrested over the weekend will be given hearings this morning in Police Court on charges of disorderly conduct.

Lena McDonald, Keyser, W. Va., who also faces a drunken charge, and Edith Walker, Pinto, were arrested Saturday at 11:30 p. m.

Temperature Reading

The weatherman is a bit confused today, first he says cloudy and rainy, then he comes back with a fair and warmer forecast, so take your pick, and hope for the latter. If you have an orchard you probably are worried about these nippy nights, but they haven't done too much damage. Saturday night, the temperature dipped to a bitter 26, but came up to 65 during the day and at 10 o'clock last night, had dropped to 53 degrees. Better keep those overcoats handy these nights, to guard against colds.

Mountain Radio Club To Take Part In Amateur Field Days June 12-13

The Mountain Radio Club will participate in the American Radio Relay League field days to be held in the United States and Canada June 12 and 13, Ray Sine, secretary, announced yesterday.

The two-day field event will be held on Nicholas Mountain, off Route 51, where the club will set up a complete field station which will be placed in continuous operation for 24 hours beginning Saturday, June 12, at 4 p. m.

The local club, Sine said, will compete with hundreds of similar amateur radio stations for points based upon the number of radio contacts, messages completed, power used and the number of amateur bands used in the communications.

The contest is held each year, he said, to promote the use of emergency, or self powered, radio equipment.

The Mountain Radio Club's participation in the contest last year was successful both from the standpoint of technical progress and from a recreational standpoint.

The idea of the contests is to use as low power as possible in completing messages in phone and code with other stations. Last year, the club was credited with 990 points for 270 contacts on the 80 meter band with clubs in 20 states in this country and two stations in Canada.

Complete plans for the field day and some six transmitter hunts to be held by the 18-member club this summer and fall will be completed at a meeting of the club to be held Friday night at the club's home on Oldtown Road.

Five members are expected to participate in a Federal Communications Commission conducted examination here Thursday for amateur radio licenses.

They have been practicing for some time at the club which conducts code classes to enable members to secure licenses and to give members who have licenses opportunity to brush up on code work.

The club recently secured a 100-watt transmitter which will operate both on phone or continuous wave. The equipment will be licensed in the near future, Sine said.

Anyone who desires information about the club may contact Sine, who lives at 452 Pennsylvania Avenue, or the club's president, Robert C. Harper, 410 Bedford Street.

Railroad Layoff Will Begin Today

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad employes in Cumberland and Keyser will begin an indefinite furlough after working hours today, it was announced last night by company officials.

The new furlough will affect 3,134 carmen on the system and will include all heavy locomotive shops except the one at Cumberland.

The Bolt and Forge will furlough 272 men, and the rolling mill, which was not included on the last layoff, will furlough 55 men. About 70 men will remain at the Bolt and Forge.

At Keyser, the new furlough will affect 249 men in the car department and 100 in the roundhouse, officials said.

The working day for the men ends at 3:20 o'clock and it is believed if the coal strike is called off, the men will return to work as usual.

Local Orchards Are Not Damaged

While orchards in other sections of the state suffered losses during the weekend cold spell, local orchard men say that damage here was at a minimum.

Temperatures fell to around 20 degrees at Hancock, center of an extensive fruit belt, and readings of 24 and 22 above were recorded at Indian Spring and Smithburg.

While temperatures here fell to around 26 degrees, the frost was light and caused very little, if any damage, it is reported.

Harry W. Miller, Paw Paw, W. Va., orchardist, said that the frost did not do his orchards any harm that he could see, and that he believed the frost was too high to catch many of the trees in this vicinity.

Testimony Presented On Dairy Discharge

Testimony on an arbitration hearing concerning the discharge of Hilbert Johnson by the Liberty Milk Company was heard Saturday by Carl Schedler, Washington arbitrator.

Present at the three-hour hearing held in the Fort Cumberland Hotel were Jack F. Moore and J. F. Garlitz, for Local 924, Dairy Workers Union, and G. A. Lemmert and William Ruppert, for the company, and Johnson.

A decision on the case was promised this week. The worker, the union said, was hired December 20, 1947, and discharged without notice February 5.

The company, it was reported, contended the man was not a union member at the time of his discharge. The union said he held a transfer card from Local 453, Teamsters Union, and became a full fledged member on January 20, and consequently was covered by the contract on the date of discharge.

Only Wage Issue Remains In Coney Contract Talks

Workers To Petition For Union Shop Poll

Agreement has been reached on all issues except wages in the current contract negotiations between the Lonaconing sub-local of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, and the General Textile Mills, Inc., John G. Thomas, business manager of the union, reported last night.

The agreement eliminating all but direct negotiations on the wage issue was reached yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the workers held in Lonaconing with Thomas and Playford Aldridge, Local 1874 president, representing the Celanese local.

Thomas said the firm has asked for time to consider the union's request for a "substantial wage increase" and added the union expects to reach a complete agreement before the present contract expires May 8.

A report on the contract negotiations was presented by Thomas and Aldridge, who explained the company has already begun preparations for the installation of electric water fountains and the modernization of washrooms and first aid equipment at the mill which employs over 250 workers.

The company, Thomas reported, has promised it will offer a better insurance plan than the proposed program which was recently rejected by the union negotiating committee.

The firm also promised, the union said, to institute, in the near future, weekly payroll payments as requested by the union instead of the present bi-monthly payments.

Robert Shockey, a plant committeeman, was elected to represent workers of the Lonaconing mill at the TWUA convention which will open in Atlantic City April 27.

Members approved unanimously a proposal to seek union shop security at the Lonaconing mill.

When petitions are signed, the union will ask the National Labor Relations Board to conduct a union shop election in Lonaconing, Thomas said.

The Keyser sub-local recently won a similar election and became the first union in this area to win union security under the new labor legislation.

Reports Unconfirmed That Mines Will Open

Despite some rumors last night that miners in this area would return to work today, a check failed to reveal any tendency to return.

Railroad officials when contacted said they had heard the rumors, but as yet nothing official had been heard and they were continuing the present schedule.

One official of the United Mine Workers said he knew nothing about the situation.

Meanwhile, on a nationwide scale miners seemed inclined to continue their 22-day-old strike despite a government injunction aimed at ending the stoppage.

Local Man Writes Lane About Old Age Revenue

Ross S. Shaw, Oldtown, has written Governor William Preston Lane, Jr., asking that in case an extra session of the General Assembly is called to raise salaries of state employes, some consideration be given persons receiving old age assistance from the Allegany County Welfare Board.

Shaw stated that due to the high cost of living, along with the sales tax, that many of these people are not receiving an adequate amount to live on and that something should be done in regard to the matter.

Walter W. Dawson, former state's attorney of Garrett County, will be the principal speaker at the banquet, which will be followed by a social featuring moving pictures.

The event is expected to attract top state fire officials as well as county and state political officials. Over 600 firemen of the 28 companies composing the association have indicated they will attend.

A 30-minute film on the 1947 World Series baseball games will be shown and Henry Marschalk, Takoma Park, will show films of the state convention and parade held in Frostburg last year.

Yesterday organization members met in Barton to complete arrangements for the annual social and also elected Rev. Stanley Schwind chaplain of the organization to succeed Rev. Walter D. Mehrling, who resigned recently.

Heading the state department officials expected to attend the smoker and banquet is Charles R. Stallings, Pikesville, state president, who will speak for the visiting officers.

William R. Chappell, president of the Allegany-Garrett Association, will deliver the welcome address to state officials and guests.

The event is expected to attract practically all of the state officials since they will be meeting in Hagerstown on the following day for a state executive meeting.

The right front of the automobile was damaged considerably by the impact, according to police, who said it was towed to a local garage. No charges were preferred against the driver.

Cumberland's Allegany and Memorial Hospitals treated several persons over the weekend for minor accident injuries, it was reported last night.

Veterans Under G.I. Training Show Increase Of About 4,584 Last Year

An increase of approximately 4,584 was recorded last year in the number of Maryland veterans training under either the G. I. Bill or Public Law 16 which provides training for disabled veterans.

This was announced by William A. Burns, officer in charge of the Cumberland Veterans Administration Office, who pointed out that 29,623 ex-servicemen and women were attending school or training on the job in Maryland on December 31, 1947. The figure for the end of 1946 was 25,039.

Of the total of veterans in training at the end of 1947, those attending school or training on the farm numbered 18,881, while those training on the job totaled 10,742. The figures at the close of 1946 were 13,051 and 11,988 respectively. Although the number of veterans training on the job showed a decline, this was more than offset by the increase among veterans attending school.

Disabled veterans training under Public Law 16 accounted for 2,556 of the ex-servicemen and women enrolled at the end of 1947, while the other 27,067 were training under the G. I. Bill.

During 1947, the Veterans Administration spent $24,085,640 on the G. I. educational program in Maryland. Included in these totals were subsistence payments to veterans, tuition, supplies and the cost of vocational guidance.

Tax Action Not Likely To Change Appointive Jobs

Rumors To Contrary Persistent, However

The newly elected Mayor and Council prepared for their first official meeting this morning with indications last night that appointment agreements reached Friday will not be affected by planned legal action in the city tax collection case. However, rumors to the contrary persisted last night.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said no further caucuses were scheduled and councilmen contacted last night said the decisions reached Friday in Mayor Post's office "still stand" as far as they were concerned.

Political observers were speculating over a last-minute change in the city tax collector appointment, after State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris declared "voluminous evidence" in the tax case will be presented to the grand jury.

Mayor Post did disclose that he will make an important statement when the new municipal body meets this morning, but declined to discuss the nature of his statement.

Since Friday when the newly elected body met, it has been assumed that all four political appointments to be made will not receive unanimous votes, and political prognosticators declared the Mayor will not be "entirely pleased" with the persons selected to fill the four vacancies.

The positions to be filled are city solicitor, city tax collector, a Civil Service Commission post and a physician to the Health Board.

While the newly elected commissioners announced agreement on the appointments after Friday morning's half-hour meeting they declined to release the names of appointees prior to this morning.

In addition to the four appointments the newly elected councilmen will be assigned to the departments in which they will serve for the next two years. William Buchholtz will be the only new face on the City Council, but Edgar Reynolds will be returning after several years absence from public life.

The two remaining councilmen are William V. Keegan and William J. Edwards, both of whom were re-elected to office in the general election. Mayor Post will be beginning his third term this morning.

Mayor Thomas S. Post will give the response to Haneke's speech for the City of Cumberland.

The prayer of dedication will be offered by Rabbi Jacob Aaronson, of Beth Jacob Congregation here.

Material to be sealed in the cornerstone will include copies of Cumberland newspapers presented by John J. McMullen, president of the Times and Alleganian Company; the Allegany County Telephone Directory, by Mrs. Helen C. Johnson, chief operator of the Cumberland exchange; photographs of architect's drawings of the building, R. E. L. Taylor, of Taylor and Fisher, Baltimore architects, and copies of the Cumberland Telephone History, The Transmitter and the C. and P. Call, by E. H. Bender, plant wire chief.

Tasker G. Lowndes, a director of the company, will receive and place the articles in the cornerstone and seal the opening.

Howard M. Smith, manager of the Cumberland office, is in charge of arrangements for the ceremony.

The Mountain Radio Club will participate in the American Radio Relay League field days to be held in the United States and Canada June 12 and 13, Ray Sine, secretary, announced yesterday.

The two-day field event will be held on Nicholas Mountain, off Route 51, where the club will set up a complete field station which will be placed in continuous operation for 24 hours beginning Saturday, June 12, at 4 p. m.

The local club, Sine said, will compete with hundreds of similar amateur radio stations for points based upon the number of radio contacts, messages completed, power used and the number of amateur bands used in the communications.

The contest is held each year, he said, to promote the use of emergency, or self powered, radio equipment.

The Mountain Radio Club's participation in the contest last year was successful both from the standpoint of technical progress and from a recreational standpoint.

The idea of the contests is to use as low power as possible in completing messages in phone and code with other stations. Last year, the club was credited with 990 points for 270 contacts on the 80 meter band with clubs in 20 states in this country and two stations in Canada.

Complete plans for the field day and some six transmitter hunts to be held by the 18-member club this summer and fall will be completed at a meeting of the club to be held Friday night at the club's home on Oldtown Road.

Five members are expected to participate in a Federal Communications Commission conducted examination here Thursday for amateur radio licenses.

They have been practicing for some time at the club which conducts code classes to enable members to secure licenses and to give members who have licenses opportunity to brush up on code work.

The club recently secured a 100-watt transmitter which will operate both on phone or continuous wave. The equipment will be licensed in the near future, Sine said.

Anyone who desires information about the club may contact Sine, who lives at 452 Pennsylvania Avenue, or the club's president, Robert C. Harper, 410 Bedford Street.

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad employes in Cumberland and Keyser will begin an indefinite furlough after working hours today, it was announced last night by company officials.

The new furlough will affect 3,134 carmen on the system and will include all heavy locomotive shops except the one at Cumberland.

The Bolt and Forge will furlough 272 men, and the rolling mill, which was not included on the last layoff, will furlough 55 men. About 70 men will remain at the Bolt and Forge.

At Keyser, the new furlough will affect 249 men in the car department and 100 in the roundhouse, officials said.

The working day for the men ends at 3:20 o'clock and it is believed if the coal strike is called off, the men will return to work as usual.

Local Orchards Are Not Damaged

While orchards in other sections of the state suffered losses during the weekend cold spell, local orchard men say that damage here was at a minimum.

Temperatures fell to around 20 degrees at Hancock, center of an extensive fruit belt, and readings of 24 and 22 above were recorded at Indian Spring and Smithburg.

While temperatures here fell to around 26 degrees, the frost was light and caused very little, if any damage, it is reported.

Harry W. Miller, Paw Paw, W. Va., orchardist, said that the frost did not do his orchards any harm that he could see, and that he believed the frost was too high to catch many of the trees in this vicinity.

Testimony Presented On Dairy Discharge

Testimony on an arbitration hearing concerning the discharge of Hilbert Johnson by the Liberty Milk Company was heard Saturday by Carl Schedler, Washington arbitrator.

Present at the three-hour hearing held in the Fort Cumberland Hotel were Jack F. Moore and J. F. Garlitz, for Local 924, Dairy Workers Union, and G. A. Lemmert and William Ruppert, for the company, and Johnson.

A decision on the case was promised this week. The worker, the union said, was hired December 20, 1947, and discharged without notice February 5.

The company, it was reported, contended the man was not a union member at the time of his discharge. The union said he held a transfer card from Local 453, Teamsters Union, and became a full fledged member on January 20, and consequently was covered by the contract on the date of discharge.

Only Wage Issue Remains In Coney Contract Talks

Workers To Petition For Union Shop Poll

Agreement has been reached on all issues except wages in the current contract negotiations between the Lonaconing sub-local of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, and the General Textile Mills, Inc., John G. Thomas, business manager of the union, reported last night.

The agreement eliminating all but direct negotiations on the wage issue was reached yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the workers held in Lonaconing with Thomas and Playford Aldridge, Local 1874 president, representing the Celanese local.

Thomas said the firm has asked for time to consider the union's request for a "substantial wage increase" and added the union expects to reach a complete agreement before the present contract expires May 8.

A report on the contract negotiations was presented by Thomas and Aldridge, who explained the company has already begun preparations for the installation of electric water fountains and the modernization of washrooms and first aid equipment at the mill which employs over 250 workers.

The company, Thomas reported, has promised it will offer a better insurance plan than the proposed program which was recently rejected by the union negotiating committee.

The firm also promised, the union said, to institute, in the near future, weekly payroll payments as requested by the union instead of the present bi-monthly payments.

Robert Shockey, a plant committeeman, was elected to represent workers of the Lonaconing mill at the TWUA convention which will open in Atlantic City April 27.

Members approved unanimously a proposal to seek union shop security at the Lonaconing mill.

When petitions are signed, the union will ask the National Labor Relations Board to conduct a union shop election in Lonaconing, Thomas said.

The Keyser sub-local recently won a similar election and became the first union in this area to win union security under the new labor legislation.

Reports Unconfirmed That Mines Will Open

Despite some rumors last night that miners in this area would return to work today, a check failed to reveal any tendency to return.

Railroad officials when contacted said they had heard the rumors, but as yet nothing official had been heard and they were continuing the present schedule.

One official of the United Mine Workers said he knew nothing about the situation.

Meanwhile, on a nationwide scale miners seemed inclined to continue their 22-day-old strike despite a government injunction aimed at ending the stoppage.

A 30-minute film on the 1947 World Series baseball games will be shown and Henry Marschalk, Takoma Park, will show films of the state convention and parade held in Frostburg last year.

Yesterday organization members met in Barton to complete arrangements for the annual social and also elected Rev. Stanley Schwind chaplain of the organization to succeed Rev. Walter D. Mehrling, who resigned recently.

Heading the state department officials expected to attend the smoker and banquet is Charles R. Stallings, Pikesville, state president, who will speak for the visiting officers.

William R. Chappell, president of the Allegany-Garrett Association, will deliver the welcome address to state officials and guests.

The event is expected to attract practically all of the state officials since they will be meeting in Hagerstown on the following day for a state executive meeting.

The right front of the automobile was damaged considerably by the impact, according to police, who said it was towed to a local garage. No charges were preferred against the driver.

Veterans Under G.I. Training Show Increase Of About 4,584 Last Year

An increase of approximately 4,584 was recorded last year in the number of Maryland veterans training under either the G. I. Bill or Public Law 16 which provides training for disabled veterans.

This was announced by William A. Burns, officer in charge of the Cumberland Veterans Administration Office, who pointed out that 29,623 ex-servicemen and women were attending school or training on the job in Maryland on December 31, 1947. The figure for the end of 1946 was 25,039.

Of the total of veterans in training at the end of 1947, those attending school or training on the farm numbered 18,881, while those training on the job totaled 10,742. The figures at the close of 1946 were 13,051 and 11,988 respectively. Although the number of veterans training on the job showed a decline, this was more than offset by the increase among veterans attending school.

Disabled veterans training under Public Law 16 accounted for 2,556 of the ex-servicemen and women enrolled at the end of 1947, while the other 27,067 were training under the G. I. Bill.

During 1947, the Veterans Administration spent $24,085,640 on the G. I. educational program in Maryland. Included in these totals were subsistence payments to veterans, tuition, supplies and the cost of vocational guidance.
